BAN GOES ON CHANCE GAMES PAYING CASH

MAYOR'S 'STANDING ORDER'

Acting Chief Says He Acted on Instructions From Bates In Issuing Notices.

Mansfield police today handed out orders to proprietors of cigar stores, cafes and other establishments that they must clear their establishments of money boards and other devices which offer cash as a prize to winners.

Capt. T. M. Bell, acting police chief while Chief Meade K. Bates is attending sessions of the FBI Police academy in Washington, D. C., this week, said that he had been ordered by Bates to have "all boards or games paying cash awards" removed.

Mayor William J. Locke said that he had not conferred with Bates before the chief left for Washington but that "it had been a standing order" since he came into office that gambling devices must be removed.

The mayor has been in office for almost two years and is up for re-election on Nov. 4. Proprietors of many of the places affected said that they had not received any orders on removing gambling devices during the past two years.

The mayor's remark differed somewhat from the statement he made on gambling last Sept. 8.

At that time the mayor said he ordered Chief Bates to notify Mrs. Vera Shull, operator of a Bingo game, to stop running bingo sessions in the Fourth street market building and to move them off the ground floor.

In connection with this instance, the mayor said:

"We are going to stop all gambling which can be seen in the city. After all, it's illegal."

Capt. Bell said that the business places were ordered to remove all devices which paid cash. Included in the banned list, according to Bell, were punchboards, tip sheets, miniature slot machines, fishbowls from which lucky numbers are drawn and other devices "paying off" in cash.

Bell indicated that "merchandise" games would not be hit. The merchandise games are the same type as the cash games but pay off in merchandise.

Some of the business places thought they would be allowed to keep the cash games but pay off in merchandise. Bell would

DEMANDS AUDIT

Knisley Calls For Check on Workmen Compensation Fund.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Clarence H. Knisley, public representative on the Ohio industrial commission, today asked Governor Bricker to authorize an audit of the state workmen's compensation fund.

"Several employes have been dismissed within the past few months on account of misappropriation of funds, and it seems only proper that this fund with assets of $80,000,000 contributed by employers to protect injured workmen and their dependents should be given every safeguard," Knisley said.

"Since the last audit in 1937, $80,000,000 has been collected in premiums and interest on investments while $65,000,000 was being disbursed in benefits. During this same period bonds have been purchased to the extent of $40,000,000." Knisley said the actuarial audit of the fund on Dec. 31, 1938, was of little value and that the bond account was not inspected then.

PANAMA TALKS SHIP ARMING

Government Reconsiders Ban After Pro-Democratic Coup D'Etat.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt declared today that diplomatic relations with Panama would remain absolutely unchanged as a result of the change of presidents in the Central American republic.

(By Associated Press)

PANAMA—A coup d'etat government pledged to collaboration in continental defense is reconsidering an order Monday by ousted President Arnulfo Arias which barred the arming of merchant ships flying Panama's flag.

A cabinet member said last night that some decision on the question — which affects many United States-owned vessels shifted to Panama registry because of the neutrality act to carry war

Keeping Vessels Out of Combat Zones Big Objective, Taft Explains.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Congress Gets Measures To Put Guns on Merchantmen After FDR Address.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Congressional opponents of neutrality law revision decided today they would have to wage an all-out fight against President Roosevelt's request for authority to arm shipping, even though some in their ranks were not dead set against the idea of putting guns on merchantmen.

The big objective, Senator Taft (R., O.) explained, was to preserve the law's existing provisions prohibiting American-flag merchantmen from operating in combat zones or voyaging to belligerent ports.

However, he said, many opposition legislators had come to the conclusion that unless a substantial vote could be mustered against the ship arming proposal in the house, administration forces in the senate were likely to seek more sweeping changes, which would end the curb on ship movements.

"There are some who believe that the arming of ships might not be so bad in itself," Taft told reporters, "but when it is linked with a proposal to send those vessels into the war zone, the whole question must be considered."

President Roosevelt told congress yesterday, in specifically requesting repeal of the ban on arming merchantmen, that he hoped the legislators would carry out the "true intent of the lend-lease act by making it possible for the United States to deliver the articles to those who are in a position to use them."

This meant, the president said, that congress ought to give "earnest and early attention" to other major revisions of the neutrality act so that this country would

WPA GETS RAISE

Wages To Be Increased $5.20 Monthly, November 1.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The wages of 834,895 WPA workers will be increased $5.20 a month, effective Nov. 1, because of the increased cost of living.

Orders for the increase were issued yesterday by Howard O. Hunter, works project commissioner. It applies only to workers who are employed 130 hours or less and who are now earning less than $90 each month.

Hunter said he was working on a formula to increase those wages now above $90. He indicated, however, that any boosts in this bracket would be smaller and said no wage would be put above $100.

2 Mansfield Plants Receive $822,000 In Defense Orders

BULLETIN

Indications that Westinghouse will convert at least a part of its washing machine and ironer manufacturing facilities to defense orders came from Washington today, as capital dispatches said the OPM had moved to convert virtually the entire industry to munitions manufacturing. The Mansfield plant of Westinghouse was mentioned as one of more than 30 to be so affected, but officials of the company here were not immediately available for comment.

Receipt of two defense orders for a total of $822,000 was announced today by the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and the Tappan Stove company, but the good news was overshadowed by an OPM announcement that building construction will be slashed 60 per cent next year and vital materials will be harder to get for non-defense production.

Larger of the two orders—a $786,000 contract for 25,000 tires for army trucks—went to the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. It was the second major

SUSPECTS HELD

Police Link Pair With Death of Woman Golfer, Mother.

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Two ex-convicts were held today as suspects in the slaying of Marion Miley, 27-year-old nationally known golf star, and her mother at a fashionable Lexington, Ky., country club Sept. 28.

Sheriff Ernest Thompson and Police Chief Austin B. Price of Lexington started for Fort Worth after receiving a telephoned description of the men last night.

Detective Capt. A. E. Dowell of Fort Worth said Thompson told him "They're the men we're looking for."

The men were arrested Wednesday night by Detectives Thereon Brooks and N. E. Smith whose suspicions were aroused by a Kentucky license on their car. Both men denied any knowledge of the slaying of Miss Miley and her mother.

President To Discuss Defense On Navy Day Broadcast.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt will make another summation of the country's national defense position in a radio broadcast at 10 p. m. (EST) the night of Oct. 27.

Oct. 27, the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, is "Navy Day," and the president told his press conference that he intended to broaden out that event into "naval and total defense day."

Civilian Defense Committee Plans Civic Service Tonight

Members of Mansfield's civilian defense committee will have their first meeting today at 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion home to outline plans for the organization of volunteer civilian defense workers.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, general chairman, will be in charge of the program, and will name committee members to conduct a survey of defense work being done by similar groups in other cities.

Although the local organization will be patterned after that suggested by New York's Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, Kalbfleisch said the survey would allow Mansfield to benefit by the experiences of other cities.

Volunteers will probably be "enlisted" to serve as fire watchers, air raid wardens, guards for vital defense points and to aid in the instruction of defense against bombing attacks or air raids.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, who is attending the FBI's National Police academy, will help set up the civilian defense program. Instruction at the academy this year is being centered on police duties connected with civilian defense.

Bates will instruct members of his police department in school sessions here upon his return from Washington. Kalbfleisch said he hopes to build the civilian defense program around the police organization.

CITY PARKING METERS PILING UP BIG PROFITS

Machines Paid For, Figures Indicate $30,000 To Be Annual Surplus.

IMPROVEMENTS LOOM

Director Says Funds Will Help Carry Out Traffic Committee's Program.

With $16,000 already in the till as profit on parking meter receipts for the past 11 months and with the prospect of another $30,000 profit within the next year, Mansfield today was assured sufficient funds for carrying out a proposed street widening and improvement program to help solve its traffic problem.

The city has collected $40,390 since the meters were installed last November. In August, council made a final payment for the 414 meters purchased from the Michael Art Bronze company. Total cost of the meters was $20,493.

In addition to the actual purchase of the meters, the city has drawn $4,130 from the parking meter fund to pay salaries of a parking meter collector and members of the new traffic squad and also for purchasing traffic lights, equipment for the traffic squad and other incidentals for traffic work.

According to figures collected by Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, city parking meter collector, the city should expect collections of at least $40,000 next year. Allowing $10,000 for salaries and incidentals, $30,000 should be left for other traffic work.

The Citizens' Committee on Traffic, which recommended the purchase of the parking meters, has outlined a plan for improvement of the city's traffic situation.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, when asked how the parking meter receipts would be used, said that the citizens' committee report outlined a program for traffic betterment. He pointed out, however, that the program could be carried out only with the consent of city council.

The ordinance which authorized the purchase of the meters also stipulated that the receipts be used for improving traffic

'DEATH ANGELS' JUST MUSHROOMS

Doctors Decide Food Was Harmless, Woman to Leave Hospital.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. —(U.P.)— Mrs. Neoma Robertson, who last Sunday ate some mushrooms she later believed were poisonous, was expected to be discharged from a hospital today.

After eating the mushrooms, which she picked in her yard, Mrs. Robertson became worried when a high school instructor classified them as the deadly "death angels." She was sent to the hospital for observation.

Today doctors said that Mrs. Robertson had shown no ill effects from eating the mushrooms and they were convinced that they were harmless, after all.

Concede Gains In Bryansk and Vyazma Sectors

British Report New Threat to Moscow Develops on Upper Volga; Soviet Capital Appears Confident; Report Orel Drive Blocked.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—A report that Tula, important railway town only 130 miles south of Moscow, had been captured by the Germans circulated in Berlin today.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Reports that Germany had offered an armistice to Russia circulated widely in Europe today. A non-Axis informant on the continent, a man with wide diplomatic connections whose information has proved highly reliable, said Russia was giving the terms, forwarded through Japan and Bulgaria, serious consideration because of her present critical situation, but this was denied by an authoritative Russian source in London.

(By Associated Press)

Russian front-line dispatches conceded today that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were still advancing "over mountains of German corpses" in the Bryansk sector of the nine-day-old battle for Moscow, and simultaneously the British radio reported a new threat developing almost due west of the U. S. S. R. capital.

The BBC said Nazi troops were striking toward the upper Volga town of Rzhev, 125 miles west of Moscow, thereby stretching the main Soviet defense line into a 270-mile arc through Vyazma and Bryansk to Orel.

In the see-saw fighting around Vyazma, 125 miles southwest of Moscow, the Russians admitted the Germans had scored gains in several sectors, but said picked Red army troops were now moving up to meet them, reinforcing units which breasted the first violent impact of the Nazi onslaught.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said Russian troops recaptured a village near Vyazma and found 4,500 German dead.

Elsewhere in the same region, counter-attacking Soviet troops were reported to have routed a German motorized column, killing 8,000 Nazis and destroying 220 tanks in a five-day battle.

Red Star said the German advances around Bryansk were achieved only through sheer weight of numbers, with the invaders suffering enormous losses.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said the Germans were throwing immense forces into the new push after being routed earlier in the Bryansk sector, 220 miles southwest of Moscow.

Other Soviet dispatches, however, asserted that despite the renewed fury of the German onslaught, Hitler's vast encirclement plan before Moscow had collapsed and that at least some of the trapped Red armies had battled their way out of the Nazi nutcracker.

The atmosphere in Moscow itself, contrasting with yester-

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Two gray-haired women testified in federal court today that they received only a small fraction of return from investments in central Ohio cemeteries developed by Forest Glen, Inc.

They were the first witnesses as testimony began in trial of 37 persons accused of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with sales promotions of the now defunct Forest Glen.

Mrs. Clara A. Roley, 83-year-old Granville widow, said she recovered only $125 from $5,000 which she invested in lots of Glen Rest Memorial Park at Marion, a Forest Glen project. Mrs. Mary Linabury, 72, Westerville, said she was paid back only $108 on $608.

'V' for Victory, Moscow Retreat Figure In Concert

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Outwardly there was no sign of international implications in the opening of the Cleveland orchestra's 24th season last night, but an undercurrent of meaning was unmistakable to the audience.

The program included Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, and at the last minute Conductor Artur Rodzinski added Tschakowski's "Overture 1812."

The latter commemorates Napoleon's distastrous retreat from Moscow.

The opening notes of the Beethoven Fifth—three short and one long—have become widely known as a symbol of the "V for Victory" campaign, as three dots and a dash constitute the international telegraph character for "V."

County's Food Production to Be 4 to 17 Per Cent Greater

Richland county farmers will be asked to increase their food production next year in amounts ranging from four per cent for eggs to 17 per cent in potato acreage in the "food-for-defense" program, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

The county quotas, announced yesterday at a meeting of district defense boards and farm leaders at Akron, are only tentative, the county agent pointed out. The increases will be based on this year's production and figures for the entire year of course will not be available until the end of 1941, he said.

The county's milk production is expected to be stepped up seven per cent in 1941, while the pork output will go up about 15 per cent.

Ganyard explained that the tentative quotas call for a 40 per cent increase in the number of sows farrowing next spring. That increase is not as great as it appears, however, because the number of new pigs raised in the county this year was low.

There were greater increases in the quotas for pork and potatoes, the county agent said, because Richland county ordinarily is not a large producer of either.

The county's five-member defense committee met today at the courthouse to map plans for the increased food production program and means of getting information to farmers. Ganyard said the aims of the program will be outlined to farm groups and service organizations during the winter.

SOVIETS ADMIT GERMANS MAKE NEW ADVANCES

But Remain Confident Despite Gains In Bryansk and Vyazma Sectors.

day's official acknowledgement of a grave emergency, was distinctly more confident.

The Soviet command was reported to have opened the floodgates of Russia's mighty manpower reserves, throwing masses of fresh troops into the bitter conflict.

A Red army bulletin reported also that the Nazi offensive north of Orel, on the south wing of the German drive on Moscow, had been blocked.

Soviet front-line dispatches said at least 15,600 German officers and soldiers had been killed in various "pocket" battles around Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow, and Bryansk, 220 miles southwest of the Russian capital.

Against this brightening picture of the struggle drawn by the Russians, the German high command asserted that a 310-mile breach on the central front "has been extended further eastward" and that the ring of steel was biting deeper on trapped Red armies in the Vyazma and Bryansk sectors.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Hitler's field headquarters said German troops were closing in on Red forces encircled along the Sea of Azov, in a drive apparently aimed at the Don river city of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasian oil fields.

Authoritative quarters in London confirmed that the Germans had captured Melitopol, Ossipenko (Berdyansk) and Mariupol along the north shore of the Azov sea, and said it was possible that a considerable pocket of Russian resistance existed west of those points—presumably cut off.

Significantly, the Soviet high command dropped all mention of Melitopol in its latest communique, although earlier bulletins described it as a scene of the heaviest fighting.

While the Nazi press blared a victory chorus and Hitler's own newspaper proclaimed that seven short autumn days in the Moscow offensive had sufficed to "deliver the death blow to the most monstrous war machine of all times from which it will never recover," the Russians sounded a new note of optimism

Soviet dispatches said that the Red armies reinforced by civilian fighters, had stopped the invaders from registering any major gains and that pockets of Russian troops snared in the great Vyazma-Bryansk encirclement actions had slashed their way out of the traps.

The Russians also indicated they were maintaining at least equality, if not superiority, in the air in the gigantic conflict.

RAF Raids Shipping On Norway Coast

LONDON —(AP)— Weather continued generally unfavorable for bombing operations, the government said, but British bombers last night and today nevertheless attacked shipping and other objectives at Aalesund, on the west coast of Norway.

Britain was raided by a single plane last night which dropped bombs at one place on the southwest coast of England.

Japan Feels Nazi Pressure Increase

TOKYO —(UP)— A Nazi diplomatic offensive gathered momentum in the Far East today—timed to coincide with the big push on Moscow—and the Tokyo press resumed discussion of measures Japan "might be forced to adopt in the north" to meet the expected Russian crisis.

Both official and unofficial Japanese quarters displayed marked pessimism regarding the outcome of the Tokyo-Washington negotiations for an American - Japanese rapprochement, and German quarters persistently circulated reports that the talks have already broken down.

German Ambassador Eugen Ott conferred at length with Nobufumi Ito chief of the government propaganda bureau and Heinrich Stahmer, Nazi diplomat who played the leading role in negotiating Japan's entry into the tri-partite military alliance returned to take up his post as Nazi ambassador to the Nanking government of China.

Chinese Claim Key Port Captured

CHUNGKING —(INS)— Chinese military authorities announced today that their forces have captured the key Yangtze river port of Ichang as the opening blow of the new offensive in central China.

The announcement said the Chinese forced their way into the city early this morning and wiped out the entire Japanese garrison with the exception of "one officer and one private."

The Chinese first occupied the water front and disarmed Japanese forces in that sector while street fighting raged in front of the custom house. Later, it was claimed, the Chinese gained control of the entire city.

supplies to Britain—might be announced today.

Ricardo Adolfo de la Guardia, the new president sworn in late yesterday as the republic's third chief executive in one day after disclosure that Arias had flown to Cuba, issued a statement declaring his government "will be inspired by the most absolute sentiments of collaboration in defense of the continent, maintaining always national dignity and the greatest respect for contractual obligations with the government of the United States."

(Informed Washington sources said the United States would regard de la Guardia as the constitutional leader of Panama.)

De la Guardia, a man of pronounced pro-democratic leanings, was minister of justice in the cabinet of Arias, who was accused by political opponents here of Nazi leanings.

(In Havana Arias said he was surprised at the overthrow of his government; that he had flown to Cuba for eye treatments and was trying to learn whether he could return to "the country I love so much."

De la Guardia was sworn in after a three-hour regime by Second Vice President Ernesto Jaen Guardia, who formed a new cabinet and stepped out.

Police jailed Mayor Nicolas Ardito Barletta of Panama City, who was known as the iron man of the Arias regime; Antonio Isaza, private secretary to the president and former consul-general in Hamburg, Germany, whom many regarded as a Nazi sympathizer; Cristobal Rodriquez, another presidential secretary; and Enrique Linares, senior manager of the national lottery.

All Panama leaves for United States soldiers and sailors from the canal zone were cancelled yesterday.

(Sources in Bogota, Colombia, reported that Arias after a year of discord with U. S. canal zone authorities, had made sweeping demands on the United States, involving heavy payment for the right to defend that water link between the Pacific and the Caribbean.)

Arias Denies He's Friend of Axis

HAVANA—(UP)—Ousted President Arnulfo Arias of Panama said today that he had come here to have his eyes treated, was no "friend of the Axis" and had had "no difficulties" with the United States.

"I'm through with politics," he said.

He emphasized that he knew nothing of his government's fall, "unless it may have been that we are growing and such things as this must be expected in the process of growing, even though some must be sacrificed in the process."

He authorized the following message to "my friends in Panama:

"I hope they, and the country hopes for them, that they will act with the same patriotism and the same love for Panamanian institutions that they demonstrated during my very brief administration. I have tried to telephone the new president of Panama in order to know whether I may or may not return to my country."

'Ad' Brings Job Avalanche

The insertion of one advertisement in a New York City newspaper brought an unexpected avalanche of replies—and publicity—to these two girls, Gay Churchill, 21, (left) and Barbara Lowell, 20, who aspired to show New York their acting ability, which they picked up in a New England stock show during the summer. When they couldn't locate a theatrical job they inserted the now much-publicized ad which listed 46 things at which they were adept, including parachute jumping, and the fact that they possessed A.B. degrees, could speak French, German, Greek, Russian and Latin.

DEMAND RUSSIA GET QUICK AID

launch a continental offensive, the Russian sources watched eagerly for any sign that this urgently desired diversion may soon materialize.

So great was the clamor for British action that there were intimations that Prime Minister Winston Churchill might be compelled to shake up his cabinet and get in stronger, bolder men.

Russian sources said they would welcome a British expeditionary force against any German-held point from Narvik, on the Arctic Norwegian coast, to Brest on the Brittany peninsula of occupied France.

They said the total German divisions available to meet a British attack along the continental coast from northern Norway to Spain did not exceed 30 divisions—perhaps 450,000 men—of second-ary quality, with no armored divisions and that an apportunity such as that offered now, might never recur.

They said that the German anti-strength outside the Russian front was nowhere formidable.

It was reported that Emanuel Shinwell, labor member of the house of commons, had given notice of a question for the next meeting of parliament, demanding that the government make a statement at once on the Russian military situation.

It was reported that Shinwell might move interruption of current business on the ground that the situation was of urgent public importance and must be fully debated.

Thus Shinwell who has proved the most effective critic of the government in parliament throughout the war, took the lead in a demand for information on the Russian situation, and for immediate effective aid to Russia.

The newspapers today took up the cry from the ultra-conservative Times to the most sensational papers, that the government 'do something' at once to relieve pressure on Russia.

Confident Russia Will Continue Fight

LONDON —(UP)— British and American aid missions to Russia returned to London today confident that Russia would fight the war to a finish and that if the Germans took Moscow they would merely move their lines east and carry on.

The missions led by Lord Beaverbrook for Britain and W. Averell Harriman, arrived here by train this morning, having landed in Britain last night.

Adm. William Harrison Standley, of the American mission said last night after he landed:

"The Russians are determined to fight this through. My impression is that if the Nazis succeed in taking Moscow, the Russians are prepared to move their line back and continue the struggle.

"They are not downhearted."

WED RECENTLY

NEW WASHINGTON—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage at Galion recently, when Miss Darline Wahmore of New Washington, became the bride of Corporal Robert Cummins. Rev. William Dunning, former New Washington pastor, read the double ring service.

Mrs. Cummins is employed at the Schwemley department store. Corporal Cummins is the son of Mrs. R. C. Cummins and graduated from the local high school in the class of '31. Since November he has been stationed with the U. S. army at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Mrs. Cummins will remain in New Washington until Corporal Cummins is discharged from service.

The citizens' committee has recommended that the funds be used for more effective traffic signs and signals and for the rental or purchase of parking lots.

Also recommended was the widening of Walnut street, Lexington avenue, Third and Fourth streets between Franklin and Mulberry streets, Mulberry between First and Fourth streets and Fifth street between Wayne and Main.

For future development, the committee suggested the construction of a viaduct over the Baltimore and Ohio and Erie railroads on Rowland avenue and the building of a new highway from downtown to the southwestern part of the city by way of Ritter's run.

FOES PREPARE ALL-OUT FIGHT ON NEUTRALITY

cease "giving the definite assistance which we now are giving to the aggressors."

Administration-sponsored legislation introduced in both chambers, immediately after the president's message was read called only for elimination of the armed ship restriction. House committee hearings on the measure will start Monday.

Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee told reporters, however, that he hoped to offer legislation at a "later date" to strike out the combat zone provision.

Although congressional critics were quick to say that the changes suggested by the president would lead to what Taft described as "an undeclared naval war in the Atlantic," the president assured the legislators in his message that the proposed revisions "do not call for a declaration of war any more than the lend-lease act called for a declaration of war."

It was, he said, "a matter of essential defense of American rights," chief of which was the policy of protecting the freedom of the seas "against domination by any foreign power which has become crazed with a desire to control the world."

Report Arms Ready For Merchant Ships

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Merchantmen plying the Atlantic danger zones can be armed as soon as congress gives the word, administration leaders disclosed today, because the navy has sufficiently overcome the serious shortage of proper weapons which existed earlier this year.

"There will be enough guns for the ships in the Atlantic as soon as the necessary revision of the neutrality act is accomplished," an informed administration source said.

Berlin Irritated, Calls FDR 'Old'

BERLIN — (INS) — President Roosevelt's message to the American congress regarding armament of merchant ships drew the fire of a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman today.

"Roosevelt is getting old," the spokesman commented.

He said the president's message was characteristic of the "war-hungry president, who is trying to hide the fact that he is seeking war by using arguments badly thought out by an aging man, who offers the most illogical conclusions."

"The question arises for Berlin," the spokesman continued, "as to how long the American people will tolerate such nonsense."

Burton Questions Neutrality Changes

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sen. Harold H. Burton, R., Cleveland today questioned the soundness of proposed repeal of neutrality act provisions forbidding the arming of merchant ships and barring American vessels from combat areas.

"The question is whether the repeal of all or any part of the neutrality act will contribute more to our defense than it adds to the risk of our being drawn into the fight before we are willing or prepared. . . . I believe the risk from such repeal exceeds the gain to us from such repeal," Burton said.

2 Mansfield Plants Receive $822,000 In Defense Orders

defense order the firm has received in recent months and brings its volume of defense production so far to $1,750,000, according to George W. Stephens, president of the company.

Although the tire firm's defense business is approaching the $2,000,000 mark, Stephens expressed pessimism over the outlook for production, unless the government makes available greater supplies of crude rubber.

A $36,000 government order received by the Tappan Stove company calls for the production of 10,000 fuel containers, or gas cans of seven-and-a-half gallon capacity. The cans were designed by the Tappan company for experimental purposes at Wright Field, Dayton. Delivery will start in 30 days, W. R. Tappan, a company spokesman, said.

Stephens said the defense orders for tires is keeping the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company operating as close to capacity as government restrictions on rubber and other tire supplies will permit.

He warned, however, that "unless the priorities division sees fit to ease up on restricted allocation of crude rubber and other rubber materials, all tire companies will be compelled to slow up production."

Stephens pointed out that the Japanese situation and shipping difficulties from the far east are having a marked effect on the crude rubber supply. The Dutch East Indies and Singapore in Malaya are the principal shipping ports for crude rubber.

Estimating that at least 500,000 men will be forced out of work in the United States next year by the drastic curtailment of new building construction, the OPM said the public will have to forego $4,075,000,000 worth of new postoffices, roads, office buildings, apartment buildings, homes, and other improvements. A proposed addition to Mansfield's postoffice was among the projects which were held up.

The forecast followed the announcement that the supply priorities and allocation board had prohibited the use of such vital materials as steel, copper, bronze, brass, and aluminum on construction projects not deemed necessary to national defense or public health and safety, the Associated Press said.

The drastic curtailment order apparently had the approval of President Roosevelt, Washington dispatches said. The OPM was told to carry out the program.

The new policy was interpreted as meaning that no homes costing more than $6,000 can be built next year. That figure was set as the limit for defense houses.

M. W. Watson, president of the Associated General Contractors of America, said the move would throw 4,500,000 men out of work directly or indirectly. The government, however, said only a half million workers would be affected.

BIDS HIGH ON SEWER PROJECT

Proposals of Contractors Exceed $2,337 Estimates Made By City.

Two Mansfield contractors entered bids for the construction of curbs, gutters and sewers on Daisy street between Harker street and Raymond avenues but both bid higher than the city's estimate for the project.

R. O. Darling and Son offered a bid of $2,566.90 while Roger Au and company bid $2,415.60. City Engineer W. C. Statler's estimate for the work was $2,337.50. Although both contractors entered bids on redressing lawns, an item which Statler had not included, their bids were still higher than the estimate would have been with the extra work considered.

Statler said that no decision had been made as yet but that he believed the bids may have been high because of the increase in the cost of materials.

At the same time, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that the city would call for bids on the construction of a sanitary sewer in Maple lake park and the improvement of Arlington avenue from Euclid avenue to Taylor road.

Bids on both projects are due before noon on Oct. 27. The Maple lake project will call for 470 foot of eight-inch sewer while the Arlington avenue job would include grading and pavement with slag.

CHARGES IN 3 CASES DROPPED

Bartenders' Organization and Cafe Proprietors Withdraw Complaints.

Signing of two labor contracts in Mansfield during the past week has been responsible for dismissal of three cases in municipal court.

John Neznik, organizer for the Bartenders' local 270, and Russell Matthes, proprietor of the Crescent Cafe, dropped counter-charges in municipal court yesterday and split payment of combined court costs of $35.80.

Matthes, whose cafe was being picketed by Neznik's union, charged the latter with disorderly conduct when he came to the grill to claim a union card on display there.

In return, Neznik's union charged Matthes with illegal use and display of a union card and seal. Both cases were continued on two different occasions.

Matthes signed a contract with the bartenders' union on Monday and both sides withdrew their affidavits.

Assault and battery charges against Russell Kemp, organizer for the truckers' local 40, were dropped when the Mansfield Cement Products company signed a contract with Kemp's union.

Kemp was arrested after one of the workers in the plant complained that Kemp and striking truck-drivers had attacked him as he attempted to pass through the picket lines.

WIN CONTRACT

Engaged in the manufacture of defense materials, the Ohia Seamless Tube company, Shelby, today was awarded an additional contract for seamless airplane tubing.

Associated Press dispatches from Washington said the contract awarded the company by the war department totaled $2,658.

FARMERS HERE GIVEN $48,936

Parity Payments Under AAA Program Boost Revenue To More Than $100,000.

Approximately 1,700 Richland county farmers received a total of $48,936 in parity payments under the federal AAA program in 1940, according to the report of the U. S. department of agriculture.

In addition to the parity payments, county farmers received enough AAA money for soil conserving practices to boost their income from government sources to more than $100,000.

Parity payments are designed to adjust the difference between existing prices for farm products and an average price over a period of years.

Richland county's parity payments were about average for the state. Forty-four of the state's 88 counties received more and 43 received less than farmers in Richland county. Payments ranged from $150,921 in Pickaway county, one of the richest farming regions in Ohio, to $3,714 in Vinton county, probably the state's poorest agricultural section.

Total payments to Ohio farmers amounted to $4,824,072, while the national total was $205,834,629.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1941.

Asks Arming of Merchant Ships

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S request that congress amend the neutrality act to the extent of giving authority to arm American merchant ships is a logical next step in the battle for self preservation in which the United States of America is now actually—but not yet earnestly—engaged.

The president's special message yesterday served to clearly re-state the administration's foreign policy, as related to the war, and reiterated determination of the United States to co-operate in all possible ways to accomplish defeat of the Axis powers and overthrow of Hitlerism, to which reference was made as "unscrupulous ambition of madmen."

It was rightly said by President Roosevelt: "The revisions which I suggest do not call for a declaration of war, any more than the lend-lease act called for a declaration of war . . ."

The unalterable course of the United States was charted in the minds of the American people long before the lend-lease act was passed. It has been charted since 1917 when this country entered the first World war and became identified by Germany as "an enemy nation."

The bitterness and hatred then engendered smouldered for a time but the flames broke out afresh with Adolf Hitler's rise to power and is now as plainly evidenced as is his detestation of Great Britain and all the forces that stand between him and his coveted world domination.

There is no need for a declaration of war against the Axis nations—Hitler started, and is carrying on, a war against the civilized world and all nations that make rightful claim to progress above savagery must of necessity be aligned against him and his purposes.

It will be noted that at this time the president asks only for speedy action to permit arming merchant ships—he postpones request that American ships be allowed to deliver munitions of war and needed supplies to "the ports of our own friends." He expresses hope that congress will give this "earnest and early attention."

Nazi hordes by the millions are now engaged in the invasion of Russia, with stupendous mechanized forces advancing along that far-flung battle front. It is the boast of Hitler that this is "the last great, decisive battle of this year."

The outlook for Russia is gloomy. Promised aid from Britain and from America has been too slow in reaching destinations where it could be used.

Then, according to the Hitler schedule, will come a concentration of full strength against England and continuance of a reign of terror in occupied countries. Next, the Western Hemisphere and our own United States—being made ready for the onslaught by such Nazi propagandists as George Sylvester Viereck, and others of his ilk, who have been boring from within—as was done by the Quislings of the fallen independent nations of Europe.

When all loyal Americans fully realize the danger that confronts this country there will be no more strikes in defense industries—there will be a united effort to preserve freedom, homes and lives.

"Never before," said President Roosevelt, "has such widespread devastation been visited upon God's earth and God's children."

Observe Week, Present Slogan

MANSFIELD business and professional women have been joining this week in national observance of Business Women's week, during which emphasis is placed on the progress of women in business, professions and public life within the past twenty years.

Now organized in every state in the union, there are 1,700 Business and Professional Women's clubs, with membership totaling 75,000.

Following the practice of adopting for each year a slogan particularly applicable to current conditions, this year's theme is, "Strengthen Democracy for Defense," and the organization's study and action will be directed along that line.

Stressing the importance of this program, Mrs. Minnie L. Moffett, national president of the association, directed the following message to members:

"Strengthening democracy in your community means bettering your schools and your housing, seeing that able candidates are elected to office, defending honest freedom of speech, but reporting genuinely subversive activities."

This subject is not only of timely interest but it offers a broad field for constructive work in behalf of the genuine Americanism which is reflected in the principles and practices of this group of women.

Wooden Bridge Is Backward Step

THE HIGH percentage of county taxes paid by Mansfield would seem to justify more consideration than county commissioners are giving this city by deciding on a wooden bridge for North Main street after having provided modern concrete bridges on a number of less-traveled highways and county roads outside of this city.

While it is announced that final decision has already been made by the commissioners, and some steps taken to start erecting a wooden bridge, it does appear that action should not be too hurried to prevent change to the type of bridge really needed at this point—one favorably comparable to rural bridges built in the county in recent years.

Mansfield officials and citizens, it appears, have nothing to say about bridges in the city—that is a matter for the county commissioners to decide—but it seems that some way should be found to prevent an obviously backward step in what is quite generally regarded as a progressive city.

Iron Supply May Not Reach

QUOTING Dr. Matthew A. Hunter, metallurgy expert: "There is the possibility of such a steel shortage in America that we may find it unpatriotic to have an iron grill in our home, or a steel stadium on the college grounds."

Until the last few months such a statement would have been considered absurd. Hadn't we the greatest available iron supply in the world? But with iron production running up toward 100,000,000 tons a year, and scarcities still developing, we can't be sure of enough material for the job.

One source of trouble is the superiority that some nations feel over others—and occasionally there's an individual like that.

STILL UNABLE TO GET THIS ONE DOWN

Can Post-War Slump Be Avoided?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

JUST HOW the discouragement of civilian buying, while the war lasts, is going to prevent a post-emergency slump isn't apparent to a good many economists.

The theory, as explained by individuals like Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau and Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve System's board of governors, is that, if consumers will content themselves, for the present, with only the barest necessaries of life, later on there'll be such an accumulated demand for everything as to compel industry to produce like fury to supply it—and that'll prevent a depression.

The American Bankers association's economic policy commission, which ought to understand such problems pretty well, rather mildly indorses this notion. The commission's head, W. Randolph Burgess of New York, doesn't go so far as to deny, like Experts Morgenthau and Eccles, that we'll have a depression, but he does say that it won't necessarily be inevitable—not if the public will postpone its buying, as Henry and Marriner recommend.

But will be public do it? Henry and Marriner evidently think not, unless it's coerced. How coerce it? Why, by making prices so high that it simply will have to economize. Well, prices show a tendency to rise of their own volition, without any governmental boosting. Ah, but that kind of an automatic rise is just what all hands are trying desperately to prevent, and it's axiomatic that inflation always is followed by a slump.

National Price Fixer Leon Henderson's particular job is to put a lid over the threatening "upward spiral," as he calls it, in an uncontrolled inflationary direction. Secretary Morgenthau and Reserve Chairman Eccles don't want inflation to become rampant, either. They want higher prices on non-essential stuff, to limit buying all they can, but they want to keep the advance strictly under governmental regulation.

Taxation Method.

Now, how to accomplish this? Secretary Morgenthau especially prescribes the taxation method. The treasury needs the taxation money, for one thing. He's urged increased levies upon nearly everything in the luxury category and upon quite a few things that are middling necessary. And congress provided him with the required law, which began to take effect Oct. 1. Naturally salesmanship tacked the extra percentage onto its consumers' bills. It tacked on more, too.

My guess is that, with the debt we're piling up, Uncle Sammy won't be able to get back to his pre-emergency tax basis within two or three generations—that consumers still will be socked, up to the emergency limit, into the indefinite future. So how'll they be fixed to take up the slack of a depression, by a bargain counter rush to buy everything they couldn't buy previously.

Wait Till Next March.

Furthermore, the average middle class consumer, won't realize, from today's taxation price hikes, what's in store for him when he gets his next income tax bill, in March, 1942. It'll be about three times his last one, which made him ache considerably.

In short, the economists I talk to give it as their opinion that Henry Morgenthau, Marriner Eccles and Leon Henderson are superoptimists if they think they've got a post-emergency depression headed off in advance.

"Besides," as one of 'em remarked to me the other day, "depressions aren't caused so much by what folks feel in their pocketbooks as by what they feel in their heads."

Listen World!

They 'Tell All'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE never knocked a book in this column, books heading the list of my Favorite People. And I'm not knocking one now, since the responsibility for it obviously does not rest with its diminutive authors. But I'd certainly like to administer a verbal spanking to a distinguished British parent and an eminent publishing house, which combination has recently released one of the most unmannerly exhibitions of the whole war era. I refer to a slight but snooty volume entitled, "Thank You Twice," written by Caroline and Eddie Bell.

Caroline and Eddie, aged 12 and 9 respectively, are the children of an Oxford professor. In the early months of the war their anxious father sent them to Canada. It is reported that his parting admonition was:

"You can't lay the flattery and gratitude on too thick; they love it."

Whether these were his actual words or not, the subsequent proceedings hung no wreaths on his scholastic brow. For, after two years of Canadian life, Professor Bell's little darlings have proceeded to "lay it on"—plenty! But not with either flattery or gratitude. Evidently both papa and the publishers have encouraged them to Tell All and they have responded with gusto.

What Caroline and Eddie think of Canada and America is considerable — and all on the down beat. From the moment they arrived they have noted every novel mannerism of their hosts and neighbors and have scrupulously reported their reactions with uncontrolled scorn. There's nothing wrong in this, in itself. Children are as entitled to have reactions as adults. And the comments of talented tykes are often amazingly shrewd and delightful.

BUT THERE'S A VAST DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ADMIRING A BRIGHT YOUNGSTER'S DEDUCTIONS AND ENCOURAGING HIM TO BE A BUCK-TOOTHED BRAT.

In this particular case, the results are especially disastrous. Neither Canada nor America is in a happy mood. Each country is being strained to the limit by a defense program and is giving beyond its limit to aid Britain. England, in turn, is developing more than a slight touch of arrogance, which wise people will recognize and forgive as a cover-up for courage driven to the breaking point.

But we are not all wise or indulgent. We'll cool off when the rumpus is over. But, at present, we're an open powder keg. And to allow these half-baked shavers to further aggravate a tragic situation speaks volumes for a lack of common sense or ordinary civility.

"But it's so amusing! You Americans and Canadians have no sense of humor," Johnny Bull may murmur.

I beg to disagree. I fail to see anything "amusing" in the horror through which we are passing—and I'm quite sure that the lads who perished in the flames of their planes, or were drowned by enemy torpedoes, or ripped apart by enemy bombs, will agree with me.

This is no time for juvenile needling of a friendly country's oddities—if such they be. Even if there were no war, such exploitations of youthful bad manners would still be a disgrace to all concerned. Gratitude, friendliness and seemly respect for serious problems may be "old hat stuff" on Oxford campus—but they are still regarded as essential training in the larger world.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Report Just Made to President Shows Shocking Production Lag

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The most important report ever made on the American war effort has just been placed in the hands of the president—and it is not very encouraging. Briefly it shows that between July 1 of this year and Dec. 31, 1942, the production of the United States will only equal the combined production of Canada and the United Kingdom.

This is despite the fact that the United Kingdom all last year was subjected to a constant rain of bombs, and despite the fact that we have two and one-half times the population of Canada and the United Kingdom, plus six times their resources.

The report was prepared at the instigation of Secretary of War Stimson who wanted to see just where the armed forces of the United States stood. The man who drafted the report is Bob Nathan, who does a lot of confidential work for Stimson. On this job he worked under Stacey May, crack economist of the OPM, who took a special trip to London where he studied British production figures and also German production results—as far as the British were able to supply them.

Stimson Shocked.

FRIENDS of Secretary of War Stimson say he was shocked at the findings of the report, which show lamentable lack of long-range planning by the army. Other high-ups in the administration take a somewhat more optimistic view, though all feel that the country has not yet taken its coat off.

The study covered the eighteen months from this summer up to the beginning of 1943 and here are some of the highlights of important findings:

By the end of 1942, the United States, although playing the role of "The Arsenal of Democracy," will be supplying only 50 per cent of Democracy's war material.

By the end of 1942 also, U. S. production of heavy bombing planes will be only 35 per cent of British heavy bomber production.

During the same period, our total bomber production—heavy, light, and medium bombers—will be only 70 per cent of the British. This despite the fact that bombers are considered the chief means of striking the aggressive and winning the war.

By the end of 1942 also, the United States will only equal the British output of fighter planes.

Most discouraging part of the report, however, is the production of artillery. The manufacture of big guns is lagging far behind the British. Another discouraging factor is that the U. S. army is still continuing the purchase of medium bombers, though the British have just about discarded this type of plane. They are concentrating only on heavy bombers for long-range offensives, to Berlin and Italy plus light bombers for dive-bombing. The medium bomber is being weeded out.

On the encouraging side of the picture is U. S. production of tanks, which is forging well ahead of the British. Furthermore, a study of Nazi production leads to the conclusion that, adding the airplane production of Canada, the United States and Great Britain together, this grand total is equal to, if not somewhat ahead of the Germans.

Reasons for U. S. Delay.

ALSO on the more optimistic side, OPM experts point out that American industry has three valid excuses for its slow start. One is that we have shipped large quantities of parts to the British, which they have assembled. This has speeded their production, but slowed down ours.

Second, all during last year the United States was sending machine tools to England, which, of course, also slowed U. S. production. Finally, the British have had a more definite schedule of what they wanted, while the U. S. army's schedule was slow in being set up.

On the other hand, OPM experts point to certain inexcusable errors for which industry, the army and the Roosevelt administration must take the blame.

One, was delay and quibbling over taxes. Several business firms delayed weeks to see what their taxes would be before they would sign government contracts in the summer of 1940.

Two, was the failure of Ordnance to plan and provide for a large enough army. The army's famous M-day for the beginning of war did not call for congressional appropriations, incidentally, until after war was declared, following which two years was to be required to build up an army.

Fortunately, the appropriations have now come before a declaration of war; but all the army's plans were based upon a slow getaway.

Three, industry insisted on building new factories instead of revamping the machinery in its existing plants. Thus, although Detroit motor factories could have been converted to the production of airplane engines, new plants were built instead; and now the auto plants will have to slow down for lack of raw material. If industry had been willing to curtail auto production at the very start, months of defense effort would have been saved.

Four, no effort was made during the early days of defense to expand facilities for raw materials—steel, aluminum, copper, zinc, etc. So now industry finds itself desperately short. This was due to the inexcusably bad planning of certain Dollar-A-Year-Men.

But those who have studied this all-important report say there is no use trying to go back for the purpose of fixing the blame; that it is far better instead to draw certain vital conclusions. Chief conclusion they draw is that at the present rate, the United States can drag along for about ten years and there still may be war in Europe.

Therefore, they urge prodigious effort immediately, even an expeditionary force if necessary, so the war will not drag on interminably.

Deceptive Figures.

NOW let's shift from the long-range view to the present. Highly publicized have been airplane production figures:—July, 1,460; August, 1,854, and September, 1,941. Defense chiefs cite them with great pride as evidence that this vital phase of the armament program is making steady progress.

It is true that aircraft output is improving and the monthly reports showing gains in total figures are impressive. But when these figures are examined closely, the picture is not so glittering.

Inside scrutiny discloses that, while the total aircraft output is generally advancing, this production is chiefly in trainers, pursuit and observation planes—all necessary for aerial warfare but not the immediate pressing need. The urgent requirements is bombers, particularly four motor, long-range bombers.

In this type of warplane, U. S. output is still not far beyond the starting-scratch stage. To date, we have never produced more than twenty "Flying Fortress" type of bombers in any one month—and that figure was reached only in one month, some time ago.

Of the July, August and September plane totals, only about one-seventh were bombers. And of this number around 250 were light and medium bombers and only a small fraction were the desperately needed four-motor heavies.

U. S. heavy bombers are without peer in the world, and production measures are under way greatly to increase their output. But this increase will not begin to materialize until well into next year and, unless present plans are drastically stepped up, the 500 monthly bomber goal fixed last May by the president will not be reached until the spring of 1943.

Note:—Of the four-motor bombers so far sent to Britain only two have been lost on raiding flights. Both losses were due to mechanical trouble and not enemy action.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Head waiters who dream of achieving national prominence should study the career of a Swiss emigre whose name is Tschirky—a name not recognized by one New Yorker in a thousand. And yet Tschirky is one of the best known hotel men in the United States. He is known more familiarly to the millions of this city, and elsewhere, as Oscar of the Waldorf.

A few days ago Oscar slipped quietly away to his farm in Ulster county, near New Platz, N. Y., to observe a private little celebration with his family. This occasion was his 75th birthday.

The rise of Oscar from an obscure post as bus boy to a celebrity that had books written about him, is merely another example of the opportunities to be found in a town like this. Oscar is not a great chef, as he is sometimes mistakenly identified. He is an ex-head waiter who has been glamorized and fictionized more than any other head waiter in America.

WHEN Oscar was sitting with his family on his fruit and dairy farm, probably nibbling a piece of home-cooked birthday cake, he was observing two other anniversaries in addition to his 75th birthday. He was observing his 48th year with the Waldorf and the tenth birthday of the newer Waldorf, which was built and completed in 1931. The old Waldorf used to stand where Al Smith's Empire State building now stands at 33rd street and Fifth avenue. The new Waldorf was built on Park avenue at 50th street, thoroughfare that had not always epitomized the wealth of this metropolis. It threw off its grimy atmosphere only when the "uptown urge" struck New York and shifted the "midtown" areas from the Thirties to the Forties and Fifties.

Oscar also is quietly celebrating a fourth little anniversary, which, to him has a special significance. He is celebrating his 53rd year as an American citizen. He "adopted" this country back in 1888, long before he became recognized as the "host extraordinary" by presidents, fashion czars, prelates and visiting royalty.

THE late King Albert of the Belgians knew Oscar and awarded him the medal of the Order of the Crown. Ex-King Carol of Rumania, then a prince, sent Oscar the Order of the Crown of Rumania. France showed its appreciation of Oscar by bestowing upon him the title of Chevalier of the Ordre Merite Agricole. He knows General Pershing, F. D. R., former President Hoover, the king and queen of Siam, H. G. Wells, Petain of France.

"These" he says, "make me realize how long I really have been around. But it doesn't seem long. When I look back on the days when I was just a beginner, it seems only yesterday."

"We can't get high marks anymore, on account of the defense program."

A Farmer's Diary

Neglected Farm

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TIME was when the old place up the hill from our valley was a pleasant home. A spring out of the hillside furnished running water in the house; the old stone springhouse under the cherry trees made a convenient place for milk and butter; the little bank barn with its mows above and its stables below was neat and snug against the wind.

Even after the owner died, the place remained for some time desirable to renters. But the land was stony, the fruit was scarcer each year, the location was out of line of easy traffic. Little by little the buildings went down—then nobody would live there.

First a broken window, then a careening step, then a lock taken off by some marauder. Finally even the doors were taken, hinges and all. The window frames disappeared, and the empty windows looked like vacant eye sockets.

A neighbor's sheep overran the place and ate the grass down to the roots. Gullies washed their way down over the steep slopes. One end of the barn tumbled down the hill. Foxes dug their dens in the basement of the house, and even the course of the spring was diverted, so that it no longer followed its old level.

The cherry trees, tall and hoary with age, yielded every year a wormier crop of fruit. Peach trees died and the grape arbor rotted down, but the grape vines climbed and clambered over any chance support and covered the remnant of garden wall with foliage and purple fruit.

To any chance hunter who comes upon the place now, hidden behind the hill, it may bring a haunting melancholy. Yet there is a sweetness, too, a gentle inevitability about its decadence that makes it fit the stony hills, the gullies and the wild foxes.

It might be the epitome of all neglected things. One knows its human usefulness is past and soon it will have melted back into the wild forest state from which it was created. If dwellers of a newer, better day rediscover it, if any find a cluster of grapes, a single perfect rose, a crumbling old stone springhouse step beside a rill—they may like to imagine, as I do now, what sort of builders those were who lived here and were happy.

COUNTY BALANCE HITS $42,223

Richland county had an operating balance of $42,223 Oct. 1 as compared with $5,895 a month ago, but the county had to obtain a $50,000 advance against the last-half tax collection to bring the balance up to the Oct. 1 figure.

Receipts during September, including the $50,000 advance, were $68,056. The county spent $31,728 for operation in September.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's monthly report showed that the county was holding $590,000 in undivided tax receipts on Oct. 1.

LIBRARY HAS BIOGRAPHY OF HEALTH LEADER

'Man Who Lived For Tomorrow' Tells of Life, Work of Dr. William Park.

The biography of Dr. William Hallock Park authored by Wade W. Oliver under the title "The Man Who Lived For Tomorrow," is now available to Mansfield Public Library readers.

Dr. Park for 46 years was a member of the New York City department of health and Oliver's biography of the "American Pasteur," who led the fight to control and conquer diphtheria, is also the record of a distinguished accomplishment in the field of public health.

A distinct contrast to this biography is another new title, "Lives of Least Resistance," in which Laurence McKinney, one of the country's outstanding cartoonists, describes the pursuits followed by the human race when not engaged in making a living.

BERLIN EMBASSY by William Russell is a different kind of book about Germany—An intensely human story, not concerned with the names already too well-known for comfort, but with the protests, heartaches, bewilderments of the little people, who are quietly paying every day for Hitler's will to power. You may be reminded of Nora Waln's "Reaching for the Stars," but Mr. Russell's experiences as a clerk in the American embassy at Berlin are so different that there is no duplication.

Another addition to the rapidly growing list of books by foreign correspondents is PATTERN OF CONQUEST by Joseph C. Harsch, Berlin correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, who gives a vivid picture of Germany at war, with particular emphasis on what the Third Reich represents in terms of physical and moral strength, weakness and hopes. A serious and considered attempt to evaluate Nazism and all it signifies.

OTHER NON-FICTION: LATIN AMERICA by Schurz; LADY EDITOR, CAREERS FOR WOMEN IN PUBLISHING by Shuler; SAFETY IN FLIGHT zy Jordanoff; CAUTIONARY VERSES by Belloc; PRELUDE TO VICTORY by Spears; AMERICAN NEEDLEWORK by Harrison; 1941 Radio Amateur's Handhook; NEW SOLDIER'S HANDBOOK; ENGLAND SPEAKS; PRACTICAL INSTRUCTION FOR PAPER-HANGING by Ewing and Harris.

MR. GEORGE'S JOINT by Elizabeth Wheaton has been selected as the winner of the Thomas Jefferson Southern Award for 1941. With extraordinary insight Mrs. Wheaton recreates the life of the American Negro. She lets us see their general irresponsibility, fondness for gambling, their casual love affairs—and above all, she passes on to us their delightful, easy humor. Mr. George is the owner of a disreputable beer and soft drink parlor — with a room for gambling thrown in. The book is his story.

The antebellum South in its most glamorous era is the scene of Eloise Liddon's new novel, SOME LOSE THEIR WAY. Traveling by stage-coach through the perilous Creek Nation country, Adriana, a young English actress, has an adventure which brings her the acquaintance of the two men who are to influence her life —Darrell Taber, an aristocrat and politician; and James Boyd Brandon, a wealthy plantation owner. A dramatic and satisfying romance.

PRIEST ISLAND by E. L. Grant Watson is the story of Peter Costello, outlawed because of his theft of three sheep. He was put ashore on a barren island west of England and left there to fend for himself. A year later he was joined by a servant girl driven by loneliness to take this chance for a mate. It is a novel of primitive living, but it is touched with poetry and symbolism. OTHER FICTION: ALWAYS THE LAND by Engle! MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE by Coxe; LET ME HAVE WINGS by Widdemer.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Two adventure stories of children of long ago will be added to the display of children's books at the Mansfield Public Library this week. Both of these adventures include trips aboard ships. In the one story a pair of twins were almost sold into slavery.

AKKA, DWARF OF SYRACUSE by Agnes Carr Vaughn—Akka was said to have been dwarfed as a child to make him a more valuable slave in the king's palace. His mother had promised him however that when he saw double she would remove the spell. When he met Dorion and Doris who were identical twins he was sure he had seen double so he coaxed them to go with him to Alexandria to his mother. Then he learned the true story of why he was a dwarf and helped the twins to escape the spell of the evil woman who pretended to be his mother.

TWO CHILDREN OF TYRE by Louise Andrews Kent—Esther and David were the children of a sea captain whose fleet took a long voyage every three years to sell the wares of their community. When David took his first voyage with his father, pirates captured his boat and held him for ransom. There is mystery and adventure throughout this voyage as a captive.

CHILD CONSERVATION CLUB PLANS PARTY

Members Meet at Richard Nixon Home for Program and Sewing; Plan for Halloween Celebration to Entertain Husbands Nov. 1.

CHILDREN AND PETS" was the topic discussed Thursday evening at the meeting of the Child Conservation club held at the home of Mrs. Richard Nixon, 94 Brickman avenue. Mrs. Wilbur Campbell was the associate hostess to the 19 members and one guest, Mrs. John Lehman of Akron, house guest of Mrs. Ward Holdridge, Sturges avenue.

Mrs. Robert Arnold and Mrs. Joseph Mayer gave papers on the evening's topic followed by a general discussion period. Following the program sewing was done for the Red Cross. At a late hour refreshments were served with Mrs. Gaylord Farber, a new member, pouring. Fall flowers formed a pretty centerpiece for the table.

The next meeting of the group will be held Oct. 23 at the home of Mrs. Ray Paulson, 205 Fairlawn avenue, with Mrs. Robert Dunson as associate hostess. Plans were made for a Halloween party to be held for members and their husbands at the Prospect park pavilion on Saturday evening, Nov. 1. Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Holdridge are in charge of arrangements.

PICKING REUNION.

Members of the Picking families will meet for a reunion Sunday, Oct. 19, instead of this Sunday as previously planned. The dinner will be served at 12 o'clock at the Johns park pavilion.

Timely Topics Club Members Hear Program

Miss Justine Sterkel was the speaker at the first meeting of the fall season for the Timely Topics club held Tuesday afternoon. She spoke to the group on her recent trip to Alaska and illustrated her talk with colored movies of all the places of interest she visited in Alaska. She spent four weeks in Alaska and two weeks making the trip which was by boat from Seattle, Wash.

Luncheon was served the members at 1 o'clock at the Mansfield Leland hotel. The long table was decorated with Halloween appointments. Later the group went to the home of Mrs. Wilmer Kessler, 795 Andover road, for their business meeting and program. Mrs. George Wintersteen, 87 Parkwood boulevard, will be hostess for the next meeting to be held Oct. 24. Mrs. Kessler will present a paper on "Interior Design" at this session.

MISSIONARY TEA.

Members of the Ella Montgomery Guild of the East Mansfield church entertained with a silver tea at the home of Mrs. Donald Hart, Thursday. All women of the church were invited from 2 to 4 o'clock. Musical numbers and a play were presented by the members during the program period. Twenty-seven attended the party. Members of the Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Herbert Roberts, Lucas road, Oct. 21, for a pot-luck supper at 6:30. When tea was served yesterday the table was dainty with roses and lighted tapers. Mrs. Charles Metcalf and Mrs. Everett Them presided.

SORORITY MEETING.

The October meeting of the Sigma Kappa Phi sorority was held at the home of Miss Kathleen Stall, Davis road, recently. Plans were made to hold a Halloween party at the home of Jean Rench soon. The group enjoyed dancing and games following the business session. At a late hour the hostess served refreshments.

HERE AND THERE

MEN AND BOYS in Uncle Sam's armed forces seem to be making the news these days. Besides headlines they also seem to do a little traveling now and then. Don Underwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Underwood, Park avenue west, who has been stationed with the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, was in Long Beach, Cal., last week while his ship was in the harbor.

Mrs. Underwood and her daughter, Helen, decided to take a trip to Long Beach and spend several weeks there while Don was in port. While there they took in the shows and many sights. Helen attended a navy dance which was also attended by movie stars from Hollywood.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN J. McNAMARA and son, Robert, 37 Glenwood boulevard, left Wednesday morning for a ten-day motor trip to Albuquerque, N. M., to visit their son, Edward, who is stationed at the United States army air base there. He has been in the service for two months. . . . Mrs. Charles Linton, West Fifth street, and Effie Daugherty were among the many Mansfielders attending the Loudonville street fair Wednesday.

Out around Heineman boulevard housewives have been hearing their door bells ring and when they answer them they probably found a little boy or girl from five years old up asking them to buy some pop corn. The children organized a Neighborhood club which is composed of children from 5 to 15. The 15-year-old members are Sylvia Fouls who is president and Dorothy Ohler, treasurer. The proceeds from their pop corn selling project will go toward a Christmas party for the children.

MR. AND MRS. F. J. SCHUSTER, Bartley avenue, are motoring to Cleveland Sunday to attend the 55th wedding anniversary of Mr. Schuster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Schuster of East Cleveland. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Michael Swenson and daughter, Beverly, of Olin, Ia., have been in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Shupp, 54 Wolfe avenue. . . . Marjorie Mahon, 123 Blymyer avenue, who is attending the University of Michigan this year, served as a freshman students' orientation adviser at the university during registration week.

Mary Alice Lambright To Wed R. I. Felver

Nov. 9 is the date chosen by Miss Mary Alice Lambright, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Lambright, 395 Henry street, for her marriage to Richard I. Felver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Felver, 469 West Third street. Announcement was made to friends last evening when the bride-elect's sisters, Mrs. David Gregg and Mrs. Carl Neer entertained at the Gregg home, 208 South Diamond street. The open church cermony will be solemnized at the First Lutheran church at 2:30 by Rev. Grover Swoyer.

Miss Lambright, who will be feted at a series of pre-nuptial parties, has chosen Mrs. Gregg and Miss Eleanor Carver for her attendants.

Hearts were the diversion last evening with prizes won by Mrs. Henry Heiser and Mrs. John Linsenmayer, who presented them to the honoree. Fifteen were present including an out-of-town guest, Mrs. Max Snodgrass of Akron.

The hostesses gave Miss Lambright a gift. When refreshments were served at one long table appointments were in keeping with the season. Long streamers from each place ended inside a pumpkin centerpiece where the guests discovered the nuptial date.

HOUSEHOLD LINENS PATTERN 2926

If a mature figure makes you look older than you actually are—here is a dress that will minimize those extra pounds! Pattern 9878 by Marian Martin is designed especially for the larger figure. There's a becoming V-neck and simple squared collar, a soft gathered bodice buttoned down the front, a skirt with a center front panel to give you up and down camouflage lines! You may add the two pockets, the fresh touches of ric-rac . . . perhaps even make the sleeves short instead of long. You'll like the ease with which this stunning shirtwaister is made, especially with the Sew Chart to help you.

Pattern 9878 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 36 requires 2⅞ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send Fifteen Cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

It's time to think of making gifts. Here's a collection of motifs that will give you a chance at quantities of them. You'll add that colorful spot of embroidery in no time. Pattern 2926 contains a transfer pattern of 28 motifs ranging from 4x6½ inches to 1½x2 inches; materials required; illustrations of stitches.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"OF COURSE, if I can do it satisfactorily," Miss Whitlock responded promptly. "But I must warn you that I cannot imitate handwriting."

"That will not be necessary in the copy you will make," I told her. "In the copy for my father, which I am making, I shall try to imitate the handwriting as well as I can. I have some small facility in that direction, fostered by my father's training since I began to aid him in his secret service work.

"But," I went on, "the copy you will make will be for our use here, so the handwriting is immaterial. It is vital, however, that the words be spaced exactly as they are in the original, that the punctuation be exactly the same, and—what is most important of all—that the spelling be identical with the original. You will find many misspelled words, I fancy, and they must be spelled exactly the same way in the copy.

Promises to Explain

"I haven't time to explain all this to you," I finished, taking the chair at the left of the table, and motioning the nurse to the one at my right. "But I will tell you all about it later."

I folded the sheets of blank paper in the manner that the original letter was folded before Lillian made a "school ruler" of it, handed one to the nurse, put the other before me, and spread out Marion's crumpled letter between us.

"Don't hurry too much!" I adjured her as we took up our pens. "Of course, 'Time is of the essence,' but the most important thing here is that the letters shall be identical in form with the original."

"I shall work with extreme care," she assured me, and then we fell to work.

Nurse Finishes First.

As I had expected, she finished ahead of me, for my task of imitating Marion's chirography was, of necessity, a longer one than hers. Then I made another request.

"Will you please take this envelope,"—I picked up the outside wrapping of Marion's letter—"fold it into its original form, and then lay it down upon the nearest its size and texture which you can find. Outline the four edges upon one larger envelope, repeat the process upon a second, and bring them both back here. Then copy one as exactly as possible. I will do the other, imitating Marion's handwriting. And please pay especial attention to the postmark."

"I understand," she said, and putting a paper-weight upon the copy she had just made, she took the envelope and went over to the desk, returning in record time with the envelopes she had marked.

Makes Duplicate Envelopes

"Fortunately, I found some that are only slightly different in size," she said, handing me one of the envelopes and putting the other before her, together with the original, as she sat down. Then, without further words, she began to copy the envelope, finishing it just as I transcribed the last word of Marion's letter to her mother.

I pushed my copy aside, postponing the checking for the moment, and looked at the copy of the envelope which she had made.

"This is perfect!" I exclaimed enthusiastically. "You have made an artistic job of that postmark. I couldn't do that nearly as well. When I have addressed this other envelope in an imitation of Marion's handwriting, will you do the postmark for me?"

"Gladly," she said, her eyes lighting at my praise.

"Then I'll do the envelope first," I decided. "I can do the checking of my letter copy while you are at work upon the postmark."

"I'll recheck mine too while you work," she said, and for the next few minutes we worked busily and silently. Then I handed the envelope over for her to finish, and taking up the copy I had made of Marion's letter, I checked it with infinite painstaking, once, twice, three times.

Find No Errors

"I can't find a single error," she said, and I echoed her comment when I had compared them.

"Now, if you'll go over my copy of the letter, while I go over yours," I said, "we'll make doubly sure of their accuracy."

For two or three more minutes we checked each other's work, without finding a single error. Then, picking up the originals and the copies of envelope and paper prepared for my father, I handed the second copies to the nurse and turned to the door.

"Better lock those up in your own bag," I said, "and get rid of the evidence of our labors. I'll be back as soon as I can get away."

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, October 11.

A sudden or surprising opportunity for work in which fine creative ability of a unique or novel order, supported by attention to fine detail and studious or sustained effort, may be shown by this day's astral influences. This combination should promise rich rewards both financially and by the enhanced popularity and prestige inspired by such talent. However there may be pitfalls, intrigues or other subtle, even sinister, undercurrents to be guarded against. Such might have feminine instigation or duplicity. Be alert.

Those whose birthday it is may find a sudden and surprising opening for expression of rare creative talent, in which well executed ideas and attention to fine detail may be rewarded by excellent financial returns. Also there should be gratifying enhancement of prestige and popularity, with general expansion in life and its progress. Yet there may be the menace of duplicity, fraud, or subtle enmity, betrayal or sinister undercurrents to be alert to. And such treachery may have a feminine instigation, however artfully concealed.

A child born on this day should have much versatility, with excellent creative faculties and abilities, application to detail and execution sustaining it to merit substantial financial returns and personal appreciation. It may also be subject to intrigue and feminine duplicity.

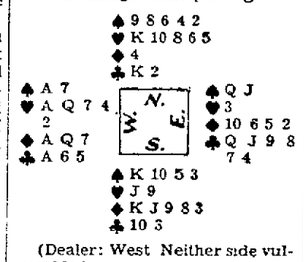
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE TOO WOODEN

After your partner has opened the bidding, and you know he can lay down a dummy containing his share of high cards, your own hand becomes more potent. Even if you have no high cards, worth speaking of, you may still bid soundly if you have any appreciable suit lengths. Let those who rave at you for responding "without a trick and a half" have their fun. But if you can count a probability of about four "playing tricks" of any kind — even if only a seven-card suit in an honorless hand, or a six-card suit with about a couple of queens or so in the hand—bidding your length is sounder bridge than passing.



(Dealer: West Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT

That is definitely not the bidding which was done on this deal in a game of rubber bridge among rather literally-minded players who had given a careless reading to a few good books. They had learned that, to keep the bidding open with a response of any kind to a one-bid, you should have about a trick and a half in honors, or about a trick if you have a good suit.

Here they could not count East as having anything better than "a half a trick plus." They counted the spade Q-J as only a bare plus value because it did not have a small card with it to make it a half trick. So the entire four players at the table agreed that East was right in passing. Consequently the deal was passed out at 1-Heart, and the chance for a game went glimmering.

Later, when their error was explained, they all saw it. East could count three "length tricks" in his six-card club suit, plus a chance for a trick at the top. In addition to which his spade honors were out, if East had bid 2-Clubs, West would have snapped into 3-No Trumps. Even against a spade lead game would have been easy.

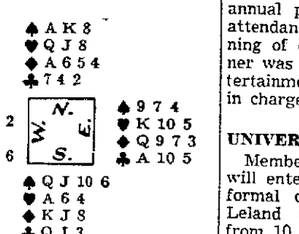
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. West. Both sides vulnerable.)

After North bids 1-Diamond and East makes a terrifically unsound overcall of 1-No Trump on this deal, what should South do?

Mary Martha Bible Club Studies Topic

Mrs. C. G. Critchfield, Rae avenue, entertained sixteen members of the Mary Martha Bible club at her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Ray led the devotions. One new member, Mrs. H. S. Alexander, was welcomed into the club during the business session which was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. Leo Hartman.

The lesson study was conducted by Mrs. Helen Wright. The next meeting will be held Oct. 23 at the home of Mrs. A. A. Laubscher, 272 Helen avenue. Mrs. D. W. Cummins will be in charge of the devotions, and Miss Ruby Doolittle will conduct the lesson study.

EARNEST WORKERS.

Mrs. Aaron Pfleiderer was hostess to members of the Earnest Workers class of the First Christian church Wednesday evening at her home, 133 Stewart avenue. Mrs. Claude Zediker was the associate hostess. Nineteen were present and participated in the business session and social hour. Plans were made to hold a missionary dinner party at the church Tuesday. Luncheon will be served at the noon hour followed by a program which precedes a supper at 6:30 p. m. The remainder of the evening was spent in sewing for the Red Cross. At a late hour the hostesses served refreshments. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Hollingsworth, 126 Prospect street.

WARD COMPANY PARTY.

Employes of the Montgomery Ward and company, their husbands and wives, were entertained at the Spanish Tavern, near Bucyrus last evening for their semi-annual party. Seventy were in attendance for an informal evening of dancing and games. Dinner was served preceding the entertainment. Arrangements were in charge of D. M. Dunbar.

UNIVERSITY CLUB.

Members of the University club will entertain their wives with a formal dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Saturday evening from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. Music will be furnished in the ballroom by Earl Hood's Valley Dale orchestra from Columbus. John Catlett is chairman of arrangements. Those on the dance floor at 11 p. m., are eligible for the club prizes.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

TORRINGTON, Wyo — (U.P.) — Trouble started when Frank Brown, jr., treed a coon.

His dog scampered about between Brown's legs, upsetting the hunter who fell down an embankment. His .22-caliber rifle was discharged, sending a bullet downward through his face near the nose.

It penetrated the roof of his mouth, going out at the chin—narrowly missing the jugular vein.

SELL 17 LOTS

Sparkling Musical.

Ozark Thriller.

"Belle Starr," bandit queen of the Ozarks who never fired a shot when she knew that a smile would do the trick, will blaze across the Madison screen starting Saturday when the Technicolor production by the same name begins a four-day showing. Gene Tierney has the title role and Randolph Scott is seen opposite her as Sam Starr, the daring guerilla leader, who loved her. The film opens in Belle's home in Missouri at the close of the Civil war and shows the developments that turned Belle devoted to the cause into a daring desperado. Chill Wills and Louise Beavers are in the cast. "The Smiling Ghost," with Wayne Morris and Brenda Marshall is the second attraction.

Western Drama.

The "Three Mesquiteers," are playing in "Cherokee Trail," showing at the Ritz and the bill also includes "Dance Hall," featuring Carole Landis and Cesar Romero.

Smalltown Saga.

Guy Kibbee again personifies the shrewd, good-natured, easy-going storekeeper to whom all of Coldriver comes for advice in "Scattergood Pulls the Strings," the Clarence Budington Kelland story showing at the Park. He effects the reunion of a motherless lad and his father and brings two young lovers together despite all the reactionary elements that he encounters. Emma Dunn, Bobs Watson, Susan Peters and James Corner are among the featured players. "Repent At Leisure," the second picture with Kent Taylor and Wendy Barrie presents the story of a madcap heiress and a necktie salesman.

Gangster Story.

"The Penalty," story of a gangster's son who finds a new life under the guidance of a kindly New England farmer, is showing at the Majestic. Gene Reynolds plays the boy and Edward Arnold the gangster chief. "Prairie Stranger," featuring Charles Starrett is the second picture.

SENT NURSERY RHYMES

TORONTO, Ont.—(U P.)—A Canadian chaplaincy service feels some Canadians evidently don't know much about the reading interest of their soldiers. Dozens of exhibition programs, railway timetables, books of nursery rhymes, children's stories and road-maps were included in a recent batch of reading material for troops.

Bible Classes To Resume Tuesday, Y.W. Announces

Weekly Bible Study classes will be resumed for the fourth year by the Mansfield Y. W. C. A. Tuesday, Oct. 14, with Miss Margaret McBride Y. W. C. A. house secretary as leader.

Afternoon classes at 2:30 p. m. have been scheduled for the convenience of home housewives and classes at 7:30 p. m. for business girls, Miss McBride said, adding that both classes are open to either group.

The Book of Revelation will be studied at the beginning of the year and later the Gospel of St. John. Miss McBride explained that she will use a historical approach to the study with emphasis on environment and the religious and economic situation of the times.

Classes will be limited to one hour and the only financial obligation involved is the cost of the text book which will be used with the Bible and other supplementary material.

Miss McBride obtained her Master's degree in New Testament from the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology and has studied at Western college and the Boston University School of Religious Education.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—"If you put a ceiling over prices, especially if you put one over wages and farm prices you will have to put a ceiling over profits of business." This is one great bugaboo that is holding up anti-inflation legislation — notwithstanding that every important authority, New Dealer, Old Dealer or Middle-of-the-roader has testified that inflation is the most dreadful danger that now confronts our people.

Johnson

In furtherance of that threat we hear "in war there shall be no profits." We see bills introduced limiting business profits to 6 per cent on capital investment and other similar lunacies.

Look at them more closely and you will find that they are largely a confusion of terms, uttered mostly by politicians who either don't know or don't want to know what they are talking about.

What is a "ceiling" over prices, including wages or farm prices? It is no cast-iron restriction. It doesn't reach back and reduce any price. It simply says: "These increases have gone high enough. They shall not go any further upward without a showing, in the case of wages, that increases in the cost of living justify it or, in the case of farm prices, that they have not reached the long-promised goal of 'parity'—fair exchange value in terms of the prices of the things the farmer buys."

That in itself is a flexible rule, just as labor wages will go up as fast as the cost of living goes up, so also will the price of the things the farmer sells go up as fast as the price of what he buys. That is the "ceiling" plan as it applies to labor and agriculture. As it applies to business, prices can go up, but only where for some special reason and for its own purposes government permits them to go up, in a certain degree—but no further.

But that is not what the opponents of price ceilings propose when they say there must also be a ceiling over profits—say 6 per cent on invested capital. That doesn't propose a ceiling over profits as of a certain day.

It proposes to reach back indefinitely on an arbitrary rule or no rule at all and, for most new and small enterprises, to a point that would bankrupt most of them and on most old and highly capitalized and powerful monopolies or great corporations to set a limit higher than most of them have enjoyed for a long, long time.

Wages have been going up, prices have been going up to a point where the beginning of a robust inflation is already here. But generally speaking net profits, whether figured as a percentage either on investment or sales, and regardless of multiplied businesses, haven't been going up. Mounting state, local and federal taxes have taken so large a portion of them that net advances in profits have been prevented.

The new tax legislation will actually reduce them. Government hasn't taken 40 per cent to 80 per cent out of wages and farm prices, but it has or shortly will take as much as that out of profits.

There is hardly a voice in this country raised against the slogan "take by taxes all profits due to war." We are doing that and we are going to do it further.

But, that is a very different thing from this new slogan: "In war, take all profits."

That simply ruins the capitalistic system and our plan of free enterprise. It is creeping Communism or Nazism.

STRIKE ACCORD BRIGHTENS OHIO LABOR PICTURE

Men Return To Work at Acid Plant; Agreements Seen at Columbus, Cleveland.

(By Associated Press)

Settlement of one strike and predictions that two others soon would end brightened the Ohio labor front today.

While 135 men resumed production of Stearic Acid at the W. C. Hardesty company, Inc., at New Philadelphia, optimistic statements were issued in connection with walkouts at the Ralston Steel Car company in Columbus and the Midland Steel Products company in Cleveland.

AFL union leaders reported an agreement with the Hardesty company providing for a closed shop and checkoff system and a compromise wage increase of eight cents an hour. The wage rate was not disclosed. The strike began Sept. 15.

Frank A. Livingston, president of Ralston, said he expected 350 members of the Ralston independent shop craft union to be back at work Monday. Their walkout Thursday in a dispute over piece work wage rates halted production on an order for 250 cars for the Canadian Pacific railroad.

Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey reported substantial agreement between the Midland company and the United States Automobile Workers union (CIO) in the Cleveland dispute over wages. The strike, called Sept. 29, has made 1,400 idle at Cleveland and 6,000 at South Bend, Ind., where production of automobile frames was suspended in the Studebaker passenger car department.

The union asked an increase in the minimum hourly rate from 68 to 88 cents and a 15 per cent hike in piece work rates, asserting that Midland was paying the higher rate at its Detroit plant.

Two strikes continued at Springfield, affecting 700 workers at the Oliver Farm Equipment company and 3,100 at the International Harvester company.

The United Automobile Workers called the Oliver walkout yesterday, accusing the company of refusing to consider a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase and a contract proposing a closed shop. Company officials said they and the union "failed to agree on certain issues." Union Representative Tom Hendricks said some employes received "as little as 55 cents an hour."

Up and Down THE STREET

By sheer coincidence Mrs. H. L. Ackerman and daughter Betty, will be in Yorktown one week from Saturday for the observance of the 160th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis to Washington. They had planned their trip before noting a story of the observance in the national D. A. R. magazine. The Mansfielders will leave next Wednesday for a six-day motor trip that will include stops at Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Williamsburg, and Washington, D. C.

Most of us think of dry ice as something to pack around ice cream to keep it cold but there are many other uses for it. Mansfield waterworks employes yesterday dumped about a half ton of the dry ice into the shaft of a city water well while they were cleaning it. The ice when mixed with the water in the shaft, releases gas which throws water and debris from the well more than 20 feet in the air. The well spouted water like a geyser for almost an hour.

The heavy showers and comparatively warm weather of the past week have resulted in one of the biggest mushroom crops in several years. Scores of Mansfielders who take to the fields in the fall in search of mushrooms and puff balls have reported unusually big "finds." One said he found more than a bushel in the fields near Galion. The big crop was unexpected, since the dry weather during September threatened to keep the mushrooms from growing.

Ruth avenue residents are puzzled about why the new curbing in the improvement of Wood street should run right smack into the middle of their street. The truth is that Ruth avenue isn't where Ruth avenue should be. According to the city's construction lines, the avenue should be about ten feet south of its present location. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today that the city would remove the additional piece of curbing on Wood street and let Ruth avenue remain where it is—for the present at least. Later when plans are made for the improvement of Ruth avenue, the street will be relocated to its proper position, he said.

EXPECTED TO SET UP PLAN OF BETTERMENT

Recommendation For Physical Examinations To Be Based on Draft Statistics.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt presents at his press conference today selective service statistics that will "shock" the country into correcting conditions which make half of its young men unfit for military service.

He may initiate a program to make medical and dental supervision and examination available to a larger proportion of the population.

But experts advising the president indicated he was yet a long way from approving proposals by Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt for using the Civilian Conservation corps as a voluntary or mandatory conditioning agency for rejected selectees.

Selective service physical examinations are exposing a cross-section of general health. Mr. Roosevelt has admitted that he is disturbed and alarmed by preliminary reports that show 50 per cent of the young men examined for the draft physically and mentally unfit for the army.

Col. Leonard G. Rowntree, chief of the selective service medical division, after a conference with the president yesterday, said the preliminary figures point to the inescapable conclusion that there is an urgent need for a national campaign for improvement of general health.

Rowntree, noted physician formerly with the Mayo clinic and now director of the Philadelphia Institute for Medical Research, hinted that Mr. Roosevelt's attack on the problem would primarily be directed toward making regular physical examinations available.

Dental defects are the major cause for disqualification, causing 20.9 per cent of rejections, Rowntree said. He itemized other major causes of rejection as follows:

Eyes—13.7 per cent; ailments of the cardiovascular system —10.6 per cent; venereal diseases—6.3 per cent; musculo-skeletal defects —6.8 per cent; mental and nervous defects—6.3 per cent; hernia - 6.2 per cent; ear defects—4.6 per cent; feet—4 per cent; lungs, including tuberculosis — 2.9 per cent; miscellaneous defects—17.7 per cent.

ARMY WORRIED

Labor Row Threatens To Halt Production of Tanks.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—War department officials reported today the bulk of the army's tank production was threatened with immediate stoppage by a labor jurisdictional controversy at Hillsdale, Mich., and said they were "gravely concerned over the situation."

The main stoppage is at Hillsdale Steel Products company, a subsidiary of the Spicer Manufacturing company at Toledo, where department officials said there was also a CIO boycott resulting from the Hillsdale dispute.

The Spicer company makes about 70 per cent of the transmissions for all the army's tanks and also for most of the half-tractor and "jeep" combat vehicles. The Toledo concern reported that unless there was a settlement it would have to halt work tonight on transmissions for the military vehicles and that materials were on hand for about a week's further manufacture of parts for the tanks.

WARNS AGAINST RED FRIENDSHIP

Bishop Tells AFL Convention Not To Laugh at Talk of Cancelled Elections.

(By United Press)

SEATTLE—The Most Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, bishop of Seattle, today warned the 61st annual convention of the American Federation of Labor against friendship with Russia and against "laughing off" suggestions that the 1942 congressional elections will be cancelled here.

"You cannot extend to Communism any more than to Nazism the right hand of fellowship without running the very definite risk of adopting at least in part the philosophy of Communism," the frequently outspoken cruic of both President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, told the convention.

The bishop recognized contentions of America First committee speakers that there was danger of the 1942 congressional elections being cancelled.

"I think it is well for every citizen to be on his guard and not to laugh off as silly such a suggestion," he said. "By such laughter Hitler rose to the power he wields today. By such pleasantries came Stalin into command of life and death for his millions of helpless subjects."

Regarding Russia, he said that not even the Huns who overran Europe centuries ago could envision "such a totality of death and destruction as almost inevitably will crush the earth if, in our zeal to overcome one enemy of freedom, we raise on high as the winner the steeled and triumphant arm of conquering Communism."

Appleseed Pupils Present Patriotic Program at School

Members of Johnny Appleseed junior high school started their pupil-conducted fall assemblies yesterday with a patriotic program.

Included in the program was patriotic music by the school band, a pledge of allegiance to the flag, a reading and musical numbers.

Pupils taking part in the program were Helen Pecht, James Smith, Charles Saunder, Murray Swihart, Max Morrison, Jean Rupp, Anne Ford, Richard Haley, Fred Wener, Joan Kullman and Eleasnore Young.

Mrs. G. C. Young, president of the school's Parent-Teachers association, was a guest.

YOUTH SEIZED

Escapee, 15, Linked With Brutal Bludgeon Murder.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Fifteen-year-old Jack Leeds, who assertedly escaped four times from the Glenn Mills reformatory near Philadelphia, was arrested in Columbus in connection with the Sept. 24 bludgeon murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, 83, and the brutal beating of his sister, Miss Belle Geary, at Media, Pa., Detective Chief Leo Phillips announced today.

JUNIOR RED CROSS TO STAGE SEPARATE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Departing from its enrollment procedure of previous years the Junior Red Cross of Richland county will wage its own roll call campaign simultaneously with the annual roll call for 22,000 members to be launched by the Richland county chapter Nov. 11.

The Junior organization last year enrolled 11,000 members throughout the county and has heretofore held its membership open throughout the year. This year, due to the national emergency and the efforts of the American Red Cross to double its membership in every chapter the Junior organization will concentrate its enrollment to one period.

Mrs. W. J. Bishop, county Junior Red Cross chairman, announced that the campaign will continue until Nov. 30, and that the only membership requirement asked by the Junior members is a pledge to Red Cross service.

Plans for the change in procedure was made yesterday afternoon by Red Cross teacher representatives from 56 public and parochial schools and several private kindergartens in the county at a meeting held in the Red Cross executive offices to adopt a program for the coming year.

Miss Lucile Lorow, chairman of the Mansfield Teacher Sponsors, presided, and introduced the new members of the county executive staff. These included Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary; Bernard Hardy, first aid director, and Miss Jane Stough, secretary of the Junior Red Cross.

The packing of 35 Christmas boxes for seven to 11-year-old children of England will be the major work of the Junior organization within the next two weeks, Miss Lorow explained.

The practice of collecting sales tax stamps, tin foil and empty tooth paste and shaving cream tubes to provide a source of revenue for the National Children's Fund will continue this year the teachers agreed. This fund provides relief activities to children in a location where a disaster has occurred and to children in countries at war.

Red Cross production work in the schools is now underway and it includes a Senior high school project that will equip 25 kits for men in service.

STATION SHIFTED

Move Made In Pavonia Library Depot, First Established.

The first library deposit station in Richland county, established at Pavonia 27 years ago in the home of Miss Caroline Hughes, has been transferred from the Hughes home to that of Mrs. G. W. Hout there due to the retirement of Miss Hughes as a volunteer librarian.

Miss Hughes has been ill and is now confined to the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Esther Hughes, 227 West First street.

Supplied by the Mansfield Public library the Pavonia station has a rotating collection of approximately 60 titles that are changed every six weeks.

It is the only county deposit station located in a home as all the other library branches are housed in stores and store rooms.

PLAN MEETING

Farm Bureau Directors To Map Membership Parley.

Plans for the annual Richland county Farm Bureau membership meeting will be discussed by the Farm Bureau board next Wednesday at 8 p. m., W. B Davis, bureau manager, said today

Meeting in the bureau offices at 251 East Third street, with Louis Rinehart, president, board members will set the date and place for the membership meeting and prepare reports to be presented on that date.

Once a year the entire membership meets in Mansfield, usually at the First Methodist church, and after hearing reports of work completed by the bureau officers elects new officers for the coming year.

DEFERMENTS HIT

Draft Headquarters Investigates Action In Mercer County.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Major Harold L. Hays, executive officer of Ohio selective service headquarters, said today it had investigated "an unusually large" number of occupational deferments granted to prospective selectees in Mercer county.

Major R. R. Shaw, a selective service inspector, spent three days in Celina and brought back approximately 80 questionnaires on "questionable" classifications for deferments. Occupational deferments have been granted to 268 residents of Mercer county.

Torch Songstress Earned Million, Died Penniless

CHICAGO—(INS)—The details of Helen Morgan's career as the country's most beloved torch singer were fitted into a familiar pattern today. She made an estimated $1,000,000 with her voice, but she died penniless.

Her $527 hospital bill was paid by the Theater Authority, actors' charity agency, from contributions made by friends for the purpose. The agency will also pay expenses of her funeral, to be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at nearby La-Grange, Ill.

Some luxurious mementos of the years of her triumphs, including a sable scarf and a silver fox coat, are supposed to remain as her estate.

During sixteen years as a top-notch star, Miss Morgan made as high as $3,500 a week singing in night clubs. She drew $1,500 a week as the star of Ziegfeld's production of "Show Boat." As recently as 1939, she received $2,500 a week for a Chicago appearance.

But she lived well and, her friends said, she helped many relatives and theatrical unfortunates.

DEMANDS MET

Plum Brook Office Workers To Get Overtime Pay.

SANDUSKY—(AP)—AFL office workers, unionists who staged a brief strike at the Plum Brook ordnance plant last week, received assurances today their demands for overtime pay would be met.

Capt. Frank Ray, constructing quartermaster, said time and a half would be paid for all overtime in excess of 40 hours a week, and that the war department also notified him this would be retroactive to Aug. 11.

All overtime pay had been stopped under a ruling of the quartermaster's department. The new ruling affects about 275 time, material and tool checkers employed by E. B. Badger and Sons Co., contractors on the $32,000,000 project.

FACES TRIPLE CHARGE

Knee Injury Keeps Newark Captain Out of Tyger Tilt

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The name of this thing is Podge so lets have a little Podge for once. Just to keep the record straight.

* * *

Regarding the Massillon movie scandal. Coach Paul "Tyger" Snyder told the Mansfield Downtown Coaches: "I never heard of any gentleman's agreement on the subject, but I wouldn't try to take movies of a future opponent. And I wouldn't expect them to try it on me."

* * *

And Bill (Ashland) McKee declares that when Dutch (Cameraman) Baker of Warren was all-Ohio center at Ashland, it would have taken more than six Massillon policemen to move him out of line.

* * *

It's Crestline's turn today to try to keep the Wolfe from the door. That's Upper Sandusky's Russell Wolfe, leading high school scorer of the state with 56 points. The game's at Upper Sandusky, and each team enters the tilt undefeated in three starts. Close that goal line gate, you Onondagas! The Wolfe in Ram's clothing runs like a deer!

* * *

The Mt. Vernon-Marion scoreless tie of Monday night was the first in the North Central Ohio league in y'ars and y'ars and y'ars, according to the Mt. Vernon News. And it was the first tie game in nine meetings of the Yellow Jackets and Presidents. Well, there's a first for everything. Even first today!

* * *

Pete Ransom, Mt. Vernon end, who probably won't play against Madison's Rams tonight because of an injury, took a poke at Marion Fullback Lee Harvey during Monday's game, because, according to Pete, Harvey took a poke at the Jackets' Eddie Wright. "I wasn't going to let that big lug get away with poking any of our guys," Pete told Coach Tommy Thomas.

* * *

My assistant, Bud Sprunger, tells me he's been made an honorary member of the Madison Boosters association. Honorary? Why Bud is Chief Booster for the Rams. Any organization Madison may form can only be an auxiliary for the Chief. I wouldn't want to discourage Madison, but Bud was also chief booster (in this office) for dem Brooklyn Bums and for those Southern California guys who took their beating like Trojans. Maybe the third time's the charm.

* * *

Jimmy Leuthold, Bucyrus back who led the N. C. O. loop in scoring last fall, won't do it this season. He was put on the shelf with a broken collar bone in the Ashland game, the result of a double-barrelled tackle by 215-pound Junior Martin and 140-pound Fritz Smith. Leuthold had scored the Redmen's only two touchdowns this autumn, against Tiffin Columbian on a 39-yard dash, and against Upper Sandusky on a six-yard plunge.

* * *

Leo Grimes, the former all-Ohio gridder from Mt. Union, has won over the Loudonville fans who mourned the departure of the popular Coach John Kerekes. Gene Miller, Loudonville publisher, says the Red Birds' play against Bellville was the best he had ever seen from a Loudonville team.

* * *

Championship of the N. C. O. league may well be decided in tomorrow's Ashland-Shelby battle at Shelby. The two clubs stack up as the strongest in the loop. Shelby players who watched Ashland play Bucyrus are reported to have been unimpressed by the opponents of the morrow. Game time: 2:30.

Gophers Favored Over Illini

Baker Climbs Out on Limb To Make Weekly Guesses.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Climbing out on the football limb:

Rice-Tulane: No weakness in this Tulane machine. Tulane.

Texas-Oklahoma: Oklahoma's played only one game and remains a question mark. Texas.

Georgia Tech-Notre Dame: There appears to be too much depth in this Notre Dame squad for the Engineers in the long run. Notre Dame.

North Carolina-Fordham: Fordham nearly got its ears pinned back by S. M. U. a week ago. They rate a pronounced nod over North Carolina in any case.

Oregon State-Stanford: Hesitatingly, Stanford.

Minnesota-Illinois: Obviously Illinois is improved but this doesn't look like the spot for a Gopher beating. Minnesota.

* * *

Georgia-Mississippi: On the spin, Georgia.

Yale-Penn.: We'll take Penn.

Navy-Lafayette: Shouldn't be more than a good workout for Navy.

Maryland-Duke: Ditto for Duke.

Boston College-Clemson: Looks like a real dog-fight. Boston College.

New York University-Texas A. and M: This ballot is for the Texans.

Michigan-Pitt: Michigan.

Indiana-Texas Christian: Out of the hat, Texas Christian.

Florida-Villanova: Villanova.

Army-Virginia Military: Army.

Northwestern-Wisconsin: Northwestern.

Temple-Georgetown: Stringing along with Temple.

* * *

Dartmouth-Colgate: Colgate, narrowly.

Harvard-Cornell: Cornell

Princeton-Columbia: Picking Columbia.

Syracuse-Holy Cross: Holy Cross.

Michigan State-Marquette: On what it showed last week, Marquette.

Nebraska-Kansas: Nebraska.

Missouri-Kansas State: Taking Missouri.

Baylor-Arkansas: Guessing again, Baylor.

Kentucky-Vanderbilt: Out of the hat, Vanderbilt.

Louisiana State-Mississippi State: Mississippi State.

George Washington-Washington & Lee: W. and L.

Furman-North Carolina State: Furman, doubtfully.

South Carolina-Wake Forest: Wake Forest.

Virginia-Richmond: Taking Virginia.

California-Santa-Clara: This should be close. Santa Clara.

Southern California-Oregon: Maybe the Trojans can bounce back after that Ohio State rout but it's doubtful. Oregon.

Washington State-Washington: Washington.

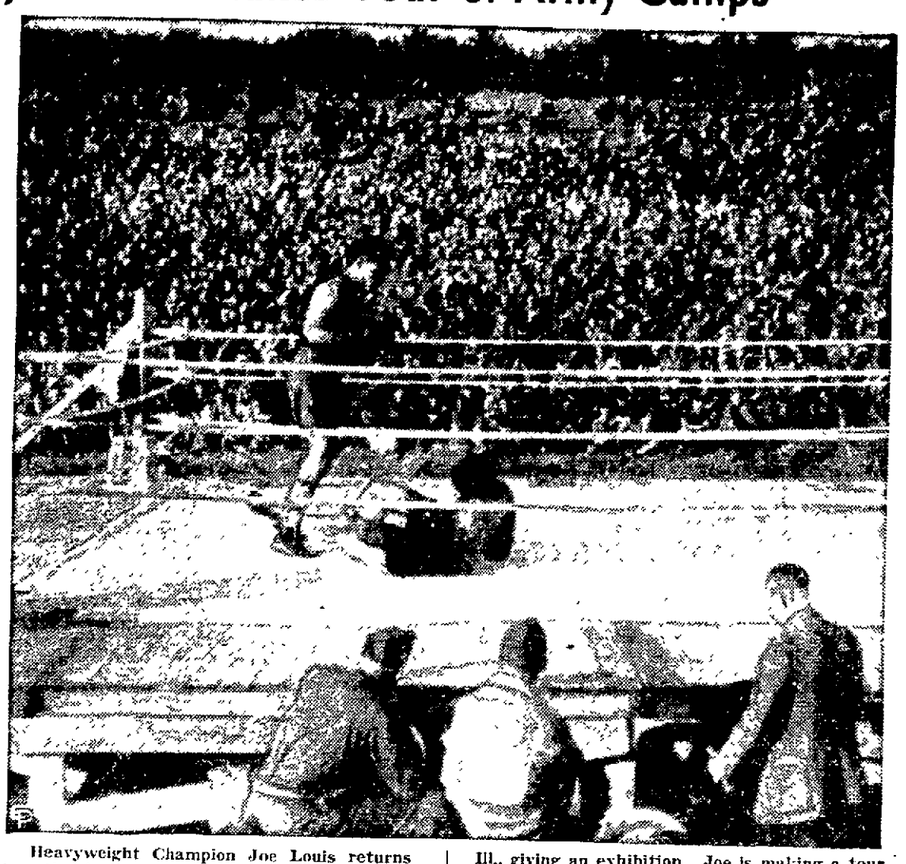
Skipping over the chalkines otherwise: Duquesne over Manhattan; Penn State over Bucknell, Brown over Rhode Island State; Rutgers over Lehigh, West Virginia over West Virginia Wesleyan, Detroit over Central Michigan; Southern Methodist over College of Pacific; Auburn over Louisiana Tech, Tennessee over Dayton; U. C. L. A. over Montana.

DAVEY DAY ENTERS RING TO MEET MONTGOMERY

CHICAGO—(AP)—Davey Day of Chicago 29-year-old veteran of 71 fights, will go into the ring tonight as the underdog in his 10-round battle with Bob Montgomery Philadelphia colored boy.

Montgomery has won 10 consecutive victories this year, including a decision over Lew Jenkins, lightweight champion in New York, in a non-title fight last May. Day hasn't had a fight since outpointing Billy Marquart in Chicago last February.

Joe Louis Makes Tour of Army Camps



Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis returns to action in the ring at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., giving an exhibition. Joe is making a tour of camps, and here pummels Sellman Martin.

Margaret Baker Takes High Scores

Two shutouts were scored last night in the women's bowling league at Colony alleys by DeMilo Beauty Salon and Safety Cabs.

* * *

Margaret Baker made a clean sweep of individual honors with high game of 212 and high total of 548. Thelma Linster had a 506 total, while Hazel Altman rolled a 208 game and Mary McMullen 206.

City News Pro Gridders Clash With Toledo Club

After being stopped by last Saturday's monsoon-like rain the Mansfield City News pro football team and the Toledo Pros will meet tomorrow night at 8:15 p. m. on the Madison high school gridiron.

Coached by Wilbert "Duke" Taraschke, all-Ohio center in 1930 and 1931 at Ohio university, the Toledo club comes to Mansfield after downing a Lansing, Mich., outfit 13-6 in its only other game this fall.

* * *

The City Newsmen have dropped one and won one fracas so far this fall, defeating the Lorain Ex-Highs handily and losing an 18-6 decision to the very tough South Akron Awnings.

* * *

Tomorrow's tangle will be the first home game for the Mansfield club in four weeks—if it doesn't rain again—and will be the only home game played by a Mansfield team this week as Madison goes to Mt. Vernon and the Tygers take on Newark at Newark.

The Toledo team is composed entirely of ex-college and high school players.

Galion Trips John Simpson

Takes Junior High Tilt, 7-6, In Final Quarter.

Galion Junior high school tripped John Simpson Junior high yesterday 7-6 on the Galion field.

On the second play after the kickoff, right half Schmidt took the ball and scored Simpson's tally putting his team into the lead.

Simpson held the lead for three quarters until Galion fell on a Simpson fumble on the Mansfield team's 20-yard-line and pushed the ball over for the tieing score.

After Stinehelfer had marked up the six points Marsh came through with the winning extra point.

Wildcats Taking No Chances on Losing End

Mansfield Takes Squad of 33 to Game; Both Teams Undefeated

NEWARK'S WILDCATS are singing the blues today as they prepare for tonight's gridiron battle with Mansfield's ferocious Tygers.

Bob Smith, captain and veteran left end of the Wildcat eleven, suffered a knee injury in the Marietta game last week, and latest dope from the Licking county seat indicated he would be unable to play against the Tygers.

Smith has been out of uniform all week, under the care of a physician, in an effort to get back in playing condition, but it hasn't worked.

* * *

Coach Luther Hanshue of the Wildcats, hoping to repeat his Central Ohio league championship of last season, isn't taking any chance of losing Smith for the rest of the campaign by sending him into a non-league game.

Said Hanshue: "There is no use running the risk of permanent injury by playing Smith until his knee has completely healed."

Ray George, small but scrappy senior, is being used in Smith's place.

Bill Winn, junior back, also has been out of uniform this week with a leg injury, but may be in the starting lineup tonight.

Newark is prepared for a capacity crowd for the invasion by the Tygers of the Wildcat lair tonight. Newark's Downtown Coaches, 500 of them, will attend the game in a body, showing the Mansfield group what can be done in such an organization.

Late this afternoon Mansfield's squad of 33 players will leave by bus for Newark. All regulars with the exception of John Butler, blocking back, will be included in the squad. Butler has temporarily run afoul of classroom hazards, according to word from the high school.

* * *

Both teams will be defending undefeated records, Mansfield having trounced Akron West, Elyria and Sandusky, while Newark won from Columbus West, and Lancaster, and tied Marietta.

Probable starting lineups are:

Mansfield	Pos.	Newark
Romano	le	George
Pecht	ls	Honnenberger
Weber	lg	Wheeler
Dietzel	c	Christman
Smith	rg	Jury
Arlin	rt	Jones
Winbigler	re	Bibart
Doolittle	qb	Cooper
Krupp	lh	Bickel
Jones	rh	Winn
Brandt	fb	Gorsuch

Laubie Named Shelby Captain

All-N. C. O. Fullback Honored By Whippets.

SHELBY — Bob Laubie, 17, triple threat quarterback on the Shelby Whippet eleven, has been elected captain. The choice was made by vote of the varsity football squad with Laubie being elected uanaimously.

Laubie, who can run, pass or kick the ball, was named last fall as fullback on the honorary all-North Central Ohio League. So far this year, Willard has been the only team the Whippets have met that have been able to keep him from gaining more than five or six yards when he carried the ball.

Laubie, a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laubie sr.

Laubie will serve as the official captain for the first time over the Whippets when they play Ashland at the W. W. Skiles athletic field here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the featured game of the NCO league this week.

Shelby has two players injured who may not be able to appear in the starting lineup for the game. Junior Bonecutter, Laubie's running mate, and Harry Crawford, first string tackle, have been unable to attend practice drills this week because of injuries. Bonecutter has an infected wisdom tooth while Crawford received lime burns in the Galion game here last Friday.

The game will decide which team holds the lead in the NCO league football race. Both are tied for first place in the conference with one win apiece.

Preparations are being made by school officials to take care of the record crowd expected here for the game.

COLORED TEAMS MEET

CHICAGO — (UP) — Climaxing Chicago's South Side sports week, Tuskegee institute of Alabama and Wilberforce university of Xenia, O., meet tonight in Soldier Field for the 12th game in their intersectional football series. More than 30,000 will see the game.

Mansfield Harriers Outrun Newark

Setting exceptionally good time, Mansfield high school harriers proved themselves good mudders last night at Newark by outdistancing the Newark squad, 25-32 in a driving rain.

Sowash of Mansfield led the pack across the tape in 11 minutes as he passed Newark's Woodyard in the last 50 yards of a two mile race.

* * *

Remaining runners on both teams finished in this order: Phillips (N), third, Black (M) fourth, Franzen (M) fifth, Abbot (N) sixth, Smith (M) seventh, Pore (M) eighth, Schaus (N) ninth, Redman (N) tenth.

Low scores win: first man across the line gets one point, second two, etc.

The win marked Mansfield's third straight win. Fremont and Sandusky fell before the Newark win.

Madison Takes on Class A Foe at Mt. Vernon Tonight

Rams Have Even Break Against Yellow Jackets

Two Games In Five Days Spoils Advantage For Knox County Team

By BUD SPRUNGER
(News-Journal Sports Writer)

Madison's Rams move to Mt Vernon tonight to see what can be done about their toughest remaining gridiron foe, as they move into their only Class A competition of the season

Although playing a once-beaten and once-tied squad, the Rams are being conceded an even chance against a highly-touted Class A team.

For one thing the Rams will have a full squad with no injured players riding the bench while reports from Mt. Vernon claim that Pete Ransom, tough Yellow Jacket end, will be out of the game recovering from an injury received in the Marion Harding game last Monday.

Monday's game is another factor in favor of the Rams Slated to be played last Friday the Marion Harding-Mt Vernon game was postponed because of rain and played Monday on a rain soaked field

Not only did the Monday game cut down the time alloted for Mt Vernon to practice for the Rams, but it tired the team out from carrying mud soaked uniforms through a grueling tie game with a hefty and speedy Harding team pressing them through most of the second half

* * *

On the credit side the Rams have been practicing all this week on their pass offense and a series of plays aimed at socking the Jacket line in its weakest places.

* * *

By now the Rams ought to be used to the kind of offense they're going to meet Practically every team so far has used a single wing back to the right and Mt Vernon is no exception.

* * *

There is just one difference: The Jackets are just a little trickier. With wing back Ed Wright lugging the leather one of their strongest plays is a weak side off tackle run.

Summing up his pre-game predictions Ram Coach Al Fendrick said he believed that the Mt Vernon aggregation was not going to be as tough as Dennison was when Dennison walloped the Rams 26-6 And that in spite of the fact that Mt Vernon and Dennison are rated on a par.

Other backs Fendrick will have on hand include Bob Garn and Bob Anthony who are both fit and ready Big question mark in the line is Joe Harfman Playing his first regular ball last week the guard is fighting for a return engagement at his first string berth after an injury and a death in the family kept him benched during early season play

Probable starting lineups:

Madison		Mt. Vernon
J Fletcher	LE	Lambillotte
Spriesterbaugh	LT	Harris
Batson (C)	LG	Stull
R Fletcher	C	Lybarger
Keller	RG	Schlosser
Stone	RT	Blackford

OBERLIN MEETS OTTERBEIN

OBERLIN —(INS)— Beaten last week in the first game of their 50th anniversary season, Oberlin college today expected a more successful start for its home campaign, which opens Saturday against Otterbein Emerson Dehn, sophomore end, is nursing a knee injury.

Appleseed Beats Sandusky

Second Half Comeback Needed For Victory.

Trailing 6 to 7 at the half, Johnny Appleseed gridders stormed back in the closing periods to take a 19 to 7 victory from Sandusky junior high on the Appleseed field yesterday afternoon, in a game dampened by an intermittent drizzle.

Appleseed scored in the opening minutes of the game on a pass from Myers to Swihart who raced 35 yards for the score. The try for point failed.

Appleseed recovered a Sandusky fumble and on the next play Beckel raced 30 yards and over the goal line, but the play was called back from an offside penalty

Poor tackling began to show up in the Appleseed defense in the second period, and led to the Sandusky touchdown After the visitors piled up three first downs, Hill broke away for 40 yards and a touchdown, shaking off three tacklers who grabbed for his neck Hill plunged for the extra point

In the third period a Sandusky penalty for too much time in the huddle made it fourth down and six instead of one to go, and Appleseed broke through to prevent the punt and took the ball on downs in midfield. Beckel, Zeller and Myers toted the leather to the two yard line where Zeller plunged over for the winning touchdown. Zeller also bucked for the extra points.

Double reverses clicked for Appleseed in the final period taking the ball to the one yard line where Beckel dashed over for the touchdown

Appleseed		Sandusky
Swihart	LE	Bies
Haley	LT	Jensen
Hall	LG	Whetstone
Wendell	C	Breech

Kent State Pitted Against Case

(By Associated Press)

Two Ohio conference football games top tonight's seven-contest program involving Ohio collegiate elevens.

The loop battles pit Kent State against Case at Cleveland and Findlay against Muskingum at New Concord.

Western Reserve of Cleveland goes to Akron badly crippled for its meeting with the University of Akron Four of the Clevelanders—Fullbacks Stan Skoczen and Ted Maston, Quarterback Paul Toth and Center Joe Hadar—are benched by injuries, Coach Tom Davies said

Other games tonight:

Ohio Northern at Albion, Mich., Illinois Wesleyan at Youngstown, Lawrence Tech (Mich.) at Wittenberg, Defiance at Ashland

WINS WOMEN'S GOLF

RYE, N. Y. —(INS)— Retaining the title she won last year, Mrs Edward B Stevens, of Round Hill, today held the U S amateur women's senior golf championship Mrs Stevens added an 80 to her opening round 85 for a 165 total to register her third victory in the event.

FIRST INELIGIBLE

Joe Turek, Illinois football captain, reportedly is the first Illini gridman to be declared ineligible because of scholastic inefficiency.

CHAPTER XXIII

The two Texas Rangers stayed in Rangeville less than 12 hours. The remarkable prestige of their organization, and the common sense they symbolized, was sufficient to quell a riot in its incipient stage. County Sheriff Tip Hale had sworn in six deputies by next morning anyway and the wheels of local government were set turning to create a permanent police force with pay.

Martin Deale, free under bond, stayed in his home consumed with a sense of personal shame. Less than a dozen people witnessed the actual spudding in of the oil well on the Mayfield lawn the day after the shooting, but all day long there the machinery churned and groaned and shrieked and clanked in triumph, its steel derrick looming defiantly above the tops of elm oak trees, and its engine smoke befouling the sweet fragrance from mock orange and crepe myrtle blooms.

Thad Monroe visited in the Mayfield home each evening but he tactfully stayed only a half hour or so, bringing gifts for Baby Doll and Lillian, being cordial to all then pretending that business took him away. On the fourth night, though, routine of a sort seemed more settled again, and he asked his fiancee to ride out with him toward Buford's Pond.

"Have to take you away from home to be alone with you," he said, fondly, helping her in his car. "Always people in your house. Martin even came over last night, didn't he? And M. J., and Bubba Hightower?"

"Yes, Thad. They're all old friends, you know that."

"But they look hungrily at you, Lillian."

"Thad! What a thing to say!" Then she saw that he was smiling.

"Haven't I a right to be jealous? We're engaged."

"Yes. I guess so. But if I don't let them come and even take me out some, they'll begin to wonder. If the—the engagement is to be kept a secret I'll have to let them keep coming, you know that."

"That's what I wanted to talk about, sweetheart. Look here—let's chuck all this and fly out to California and be married! Hunh?"

She moistened her lips, gazing off through the windshield. She was not smiling, and she showed no hint of elation.

"There's enough nerve strain here to make any bride jittery," Thad went on. "You don't need to be a part of it. You can't do any good just waiting. Let me get you away from it. I'm anxious for you to see my folks, little girl! I mean, I'm anxious for them to see you. And you'll love California honest you will."

"Thad I—no. Please, I can't now. And I'd rather just talk about—Oh, you're so awfully nice, Thad!"

He considered that, wonderingly. He had driven out past Buford Hill and turned on the Tatum road. They rolled up another hill near the old Obertheir place and Lillian remarked that the woods here held many dogwood blossoms, and many wild persimmons and chinquapins in autumn there. Thad parked where they could look far across a swale that was Buford's Pond backwater and over which a silken fog moved in the moon glow.

"It's so beautiful!" Lillian said. "And you're so very serious. You are serious all the time lately, honey girl. Not at all like the old Lillian I knew."

She smiled a bit. "I have been—upset."

"And engaged too. A fiancee is supposed to be exceedingly happy. I am. I mean, I would be if—if—"

Thad wanted to say that she was not responsive; that she was beautiful in his eyes and he yearned to show his affections as well as feel them. Like many another hail-fellow-well-met, Thad Monroe used that front to cover an exceptionally sentimental interior.

"You know, Lillian, I never have approved of what the world calls necking," hes aid, presently. "Not that I'm so perfect or prudish. But promiscuous, intimate slush—well, damn it, kid, you know what I mean! Now on the other hand—"

"You are a rare treasure in many ways, Thad. Mother herself said that."

Thad was squirming. He couldn't seem to direct the conversation as he wished to. He couldn't feel at ease as a man should feel with the girl who has promised to marry him. It made him a little bit angry.

"Nuts to it!" he growled suddenly. "You believe in love, don't you?"

"Of course, Thad. Yes!"

"I mean, deep love. The real McCoy. Lifelong and all that."

"Thad, it may not be fashionable to say so nowadays, but I—I—oh goodness, Thad, I have some wonderful dreams! I mean fancies, and plans, and wish-fors like Baby Doll, I guess."

"I see."

"At 17 every dream was perfect. But I'm older now. And so many considerations have crept around to get me all mixed up."

They talked for another quarter-hour and their conversation grew more and more vague. Thad said but little. He had hooked an arm over his steering wheel and he stared out at the night. Presently he started his motor and turned back toward home. Lillian just sat back deep as if she were resting.

"Like to stop for a sandwich or a malted milk?" he asked.

"Not tonight. I'm not hungry."

He took her on back home. After they parked out front, they had to walk past new piles of pipe and a battered water tank on the lawn, but no mention of them was made.

When they entered the house again they found Baby Doll enjoying much attention, half lying half sitting on a chaise longue so that she could play cards with drop-in guests. She wore gay pajamas but the bandage was still on her head.

"I think I'll roll along," Thad said. "Got some thing I must do before bedtime. Sleep tight, Lillian, see you tomorrow, hunh?"

"Surely, Thad. And thanks for the ride. Good-night."

That's all there was to it. As casual as that, he reflected, strolling down the walk. He spat at the pile of oil pipe, considered the derrick briefly, and went on his way disheartened.

Downtown he saw Dal Tower and M. J. Parker in Hightower's, so he went in to have a drink with them.

"How's Lillian?" Dal asked, a once.

Thad eyed him, but Dal wa quite open and earnest about it.

"Okay," Thad said.

HUNT DEFENSE MATERIALS IN BIG WESTERN METEOR CRATERS

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—By pack horse and auto, a caravan of 15 scientists is now combing territory around Winslow, Ariz., for possible valuable defense materials buried in huge craters torn open by a meteor some 400 years ago, it was disclosed.

It is believed these vast holes were formed by the tail of the famous Winslow meteor which crashed to earth about 1500 A. D. If this proves true, research men predicted, it is probable the craters will contain quantities of nickel and other important defense metals.

It was a chance discovery that prompted the expedition by the Ford Motor company and the transcontinental and western airlines.

A TWA pilot, Capt. H. H. Holloway, blown off his course by a storm, came upon the holes. He photographed the formations and submitted the pictures to his company.

Research men reported the area's nickel content was discovered 20 years ago when the main meteor crater, about a half-mile across, was drilled but because of the depth none has been extracted. It is hoped the new craters, averaging 200 feet in diameter, will be more shallow.

DRIVE OUT BOWEL WORMS

Before they cause Trouble

Your children — and you, too — may have roundworms without even knowing it. And these pests, living inside the body, can cause real trouble. Watch for these warning signs: fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itchy nose and seat, nervousness, paleness.

If you even suspect roundworms, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! Jayne's is America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It acts very gently. Expels stubborn large worms without "dynamiting." If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

One of the swellest things about America is the fact that any kid with a little money in his jeans can go out and buy a second-hand press and a bucket of discarded type and start a real, honest-to-goodness newspaper in his own basement! Further, he can say what he thinks. Lampoon a senator? Boost his own candidate? Sure, why not? He can disagree with anything or anybody, and actually publish his opinions. You can say a lot of important things about Freedom of Speech, Freedom of the Press, and make them sound mighty fancy, but—when you get right down to the nub of it—this is a perfect example of what Freedom of the Press really means. So, when you read about the fact that this is National Newspaper Week, remember that it isn't just one newspaper itself that's important .... it's the whole idea of newspapers and the part they play in the American way of life that's really important .... and the plainest, simplest example you could possibly find, to show how far-reaching Freedom of the Press actually is, would be the all-important truth that, in the good old U.S.A., your boy—any boy—can publish a newspaper, and say what he thinks.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

USE SIGNS

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La.—(U.P.)—Visitors to Camp Claiborne are advised not to be frightened at the sight of three dark-skinned men gesturing strangely to each other.

Chances are it is only a conversation between Pvt. Lawrence Little Crow Hislaw, of Fort Thompson, S. D., Pvt. Noah Pretty Bird, of the same reservation and Pvt. Algernon Fast Horse, Winner, S. D., in Indian sign language.

LEADERS MAKE MILD RECOVERY ON MART TODAY

Tax Buying Spree Reaction Called Moderate, Eyed With Favor.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stock market action was hesitant today but several leaders, apparently relieved of pressure that had put them down sharply in recent sessions, inclined to mild recovery.

An assortment of steels, coppers, specialties and merchandising shares were fractionally ahead near the second hour.

In the supported division were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck, lacking rising power were Johnsmanville, Woolworth and Phelps-Dodge. Numerous leaders were unchanged.

Analysts regarded as a favorable straw the comment of the Dun and Bradstreet weekly survey that the reaction from last week's tax buying spree was "unexpectedly moderate" in many merchandise lines.

Despite the handicap of unseasonal weather the week's retail sales for the nation were estimated at 15 to 20 per cent ahead of last year.

More light on the extraordinary volume of store transactions in the tax deadline week was supplied by the federal reserve board's summary showing department store volume for the week ended Oct. 4 up 34 per cent compared with the similar period last year.

Vitamins Needed at All Ages

Certain persons need more vitamins than others. Premature infants and those infants with weak digestive powers are particularly likely to suffer from vitamin deficiency, and physicians take special precautions to avoid its occurrence. Growing children require more of certain vitamins than do adults. Among adults, the requirements for vitamins are increased in pregnant women and those nursing infants. Also, the demands for certain vitamins will be increased in persons who suffer from chornic illnesses, such as tuberculosis and other wasting diseases. During convalescence from illnesses which have caused a reduction in vitamin intake, the administration of vitamins is particularly indicated.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

To Hear Leader — Adjt. and Mrs. Paul Hoffman of the Salvation Army will hear Evangeline Booth, national leader of the organization, speak at Dayton, when they attend the state conference there Oct. 21-24.

Plan Exchange Meeting—Young people of the Mansfield Salvation Army will hold an exchange meeting with the youth corps at Mt. Vernon, Oct. 30, Adjt. Paul Hoffman announced today.

Cubs To Meet—Cubmaster Norman Henry announced today that there would be a meeting of the Cub pack No. 4 committee at 7:30 p. m. today in Boy Scout headquarters.

Board To Meet—The Richland county Auto club board of directors will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today in the Mansfield-Leland hotel to set the date for the annual club meeting in November, according to Jack Berger, assistant club secretary.

Held For Contempt — Arrested yesterday afternoon by Richland county deputy sheriffs, Sam Starr, 50, colored, was held today in the county jail for Franklin county officials who want him for contempt of court. Starr allegedly failed to make the required alimony payments to his wife in Columbus. He told officers here they had been separated for 16 years.

Navy Man Here—Lt. Ray W. Brown, member of the Naval aviation cadet selection board, from Grosse Ile, Mich., visited the local Naval recruiting station today to size up the possibility of more aviation cadets from the Mansfield area. He told Recruiting Officer W. G. Cox that there were unlimited openings in the naval reserve for such cadets, with a minimum of two years' college training.

Charges Dismissed — Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch dismissed pocket-picking charges against Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swan, Zanesville, in Municipal court yesterday after they entered not guilty pleas. The Swans, identified by police as a "hill-billy" couple, were returned from Zanesville after W. H. Beam, Mansfield, had charged they had robbed him of $65 and pushed him from an automobile. Beam was unable to give sufficient evidence upon appearance in court, according to Judge Kalbfleisch.
